MRS. CUSUMANO TO LIVE

MRS. STUART'S LOVE LETTERS

COUNCIL DECIDES WOMAN SHALL NOT BE ELECTROCUTED

FIFTH EDITION

Unanimous Vote to Save Life of Woman but no Hope Held Out for Man Who Did the Killing.

Four Opposed to Saving Woman's Life; All Are Changed Over by New Story.

MOTHER WHO CAME TO FIGHT FOR LIFE OF HER DAUGHTER

The photograph was taken by Richard W. Sears, American staff photographer, today at the state House, where he found Mrs. Vincenza Lauro waiting in an ante-room, weeping, for the word which should tell her whether her daughter lives or dies.

The Executive Council today voted unanimously not to electrocute Mrs. Cusumano. Her sentence of death was commuted to life imprisonment.

The decision was made public at 1:20. It followed evidence given behind closed doors by the Rev. Father Murphy, spiritual adviser of Mrs. Cusumano and Enrico Mascioli.

Mascioli will die. He will probably be electrocuted tonight, just after midnight. The Council decided against him last week and refused to reopen his case.

Mrs. Vincenzo Lauro, the old mother of Mrs. Cusumano, waited outside the council room while the hearing was on. It lasted from 10:15 until 1:20. When she heard the result tears came to her eyes and for a time she could not speak.

SURE DAUGHTER IS GUILTLESS.

Then, speaking in Italian, she said:

"Thank God! I am deeply grateful to the council, the governor, the attorney and to everyone who has made efforts in behalf of my daughter.

"I am sure my daughter is innocent of the crime."

When the members of the council came out of the chamber, they all approached the gray-haired woman, who had offered to die in the place of her daughter and shook her by the hand. She murmured her thanks while her face was wet with tears.

Arrangements were made by Governor Foss and Warden Bridges of the Charlestown prison to take Mrs. Cusumano to the Women's Reformatory at Sherborn this afternoon. Quick action was taken so she would not be in the prison when Mascioli was executed.

Mrs. Cusumano made a remarkable plea for her life in a sworn statement presented to the Executive Council.

The condemned woman declared she had nothing to do with the murder of her husband; that Enrico Mascioli killed him and told her about it afterward, that money was the motive of the crime and that he had threatened to chop her head off if she told.

Mrs. Cusumano also told for the first time that he body of the murdered man

SHAW ON WITNESS STAND

Accused Shoe Man Says He Had Legal Right to Money; Mrs. Stuart's Letters to Fugitive Are Revealed at the Trial.

Arthur W. Shaw, former president of the A. W. Shaw Leather Company, this afternoon took the stand in his own behalf at his trial in the Superior Criminal Court on the charge of the larceny of $19,000 from his company. Shaw's defence as he told it on the stand this afternoon was that the property he took was his own and that he had legal right to do with it as he pleased.

Before the defence opened in the case today, the prosecution closed by reading a number of remarkable and hitherto unpublished letters written by Mrs. Georgia M. Stuart, who is on trial with Shaw as an accessory, in which Mrs. Stuart tells Shaw, who was then in hiding, how the police were "hot on our tracks." Here are some extracts from these letters:

Excerpts from Letters.

"They seem to figure that you or someone has used me for a tool and tried to do me out of $169,350.

"I played simple and ignorant and they swallowed it.

"They asked me if you were going into bankruptcy or if your wife was going to get a divorce.

"They are all at sea, but they all quite agree that I am a much abused woman, and whoever did is a mean cuss to treat a woman so, but they are hot on our tracks.

"I cannot eat or sleep or rest.

"I know they will be after me again. "I would rather die than injure you."

"I will now tell you what I did with your money. . . . I can't believe you would place me in this position if you had known what it was going to be for me."

It was the first time her correspondence in the absconding case were made public. The tick of the wall clock could be heard while Assistant District Attorney Thomas D. Lavelle read Mrs. Stuart's letters to the jury. When he read the letter from Shaw in reply, telling of the splendors of the Los Angeles scenery, the trees freighted with fruit and the golden opportunities of the Pacific coast, the jurors did not conceal their amusement.

Insane with Worry.

The letters offered in evidence follow;

Boston, February 3, 1912.

My Dear—How little one can foresee the future. I am about insane with worry and suspense. I am hounded and harrassed on all sides. Should I live a hundred years, which I hope I won't, nothing that can happen to me will ever blot from my mind the horror of the past few days. I cannot believe that, could you have known what would happen to me, you would have left me to face this terrible thing. Now I am going to try and tell you just what has hap-

DR. WILEY CONSIDERS OFFER FROM BOSTON

That Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, is seriously considering Mayor Fitzgerald's offer to become chairman of the Boston Board of Health was indicated today, when the health commissioners received a communication from him asking for detailed information as to the work of the department.

Dr. Wiley points out that in view of the fact that he has received an offer from the Mayor to accept an appointment to the health board, he wishes to familiarize himself with the department before deciding definitely whether or not he will accept the appointment.

Mrs. Saint-Gaudens Hits Artist

REPLICA OF SAINT-GAUDENS' "LINCOLN," AND COPYIST.

George Ganiere, Chicago sculptor, stands beside his reproduction of Saint-Gaudens' work. Arrows point to the following defects, as seen by Mrs. Saint-Gaudens, widow of famous sculptor: Poise of head incorrect; position of arm behind back incorrect; chair out of proportion; ornamentation on base unfaithful.

The Lincoln statue recently presented with fitting ceremony by the Chicago Association of Commerce to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, as a replica of the famous Saint-Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Lincoln Park, Chicago, was declared today by Mrs. Saint-Gaudens, widow of the famous sculptor, to be a libel on her late husband's masterpiece.

Mrs. Saint-Gaudens insisted the replica was grotesque, that it misrepresented her husband's wonderful statue; that it was out of proportion and unfaithful in detail, and that even the name of Saint-Gaudens was misspelled on its pedestal.

This remarkable statement was made in the library of the Boston Chamber of Commerce when a dozen or more members of the Chamber and others were present.

Mrs. Saint-Gaudens arrived at the Chamber about noon accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Green. They asked permission to see the Chicago statue which is after Saint-Gaudens by George E. Ganiere, a Chicago sculptor.

Secretary McKibben did the honors and led the party into the library where the statue occupied a position of prominence.

"What do you think of it?" asked Mr. McKibben, all unconscious of the storm that was brewing. "Isn't it fine?"

"It is a libel upon the masterpiece of my dead husband," declared Mrs. Saint-Gaudens.

"Do you mean to say it isn't all right?"

"It is not the Saint-Gaudens' Lincoln statue. It is not anything like a perfect replica of it. My husband certainly never turned out a work that had such faults as are to be seen in this one. It is grotesque."

Mrs. Saint-Gaudens was asked to be specific which she immediately proceeded to do:

Let me call your attention to the poise of the head in this statue and in the original. (She showed a drawing.) There, do you see? In the original there is much more dignity. It is more effective.

Now look at the arm which is placed behind the back. See how awkward and unnatural it looks compared to the original. See the folds of the clothing. In this statue they are exaggerated.

The ornamentation upon the flint is not at all faithful to the original as you can see. (And again she referred to the drawing.)

MARINES LANDED IN CUBA

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—Four hundred and fifty American marines were put into the interior of Cuba today. This action was taken by Commander G. W. Kline, in charge of the naval station at Guantanamo, on the representation of a committee of prominent Americans that they had demanded and failed to receive adequate protection against the Cuban rebels.

At the same time that this news reached the navy department today a message was received from the gunboat Paducah at Santiago that the situation there are now grave, and it was probable that marines would have to be landed before night.

Strong pressure is being brought to bear on the government here to intervene immediately in Cuban affairs. Minister Rivera of Cuba was closeted with Major-General Wood for more than two hours yesterday discussing the best methods for landing troops. Telegrams were sent to Norfolk warning the commanders of the five army transports now at that port to be ready for instant movement.

"The expeditionary force" of 10,000 men, always held ready for movement, was also warned to be prepared to start for Norfolk and Tampa immediately. These steps were taken following a conference between General Wood and M. H. Lewis, representing a combination of American interests in Cuba.

Lewis told the general that only American intervention could save United States interests on the island.

The landing of marines is believed infallibly to presage a third military occupation of Cuba by American troops. State Department officials admitted today that their reports from Cuba were of such a nature that American interference has become a necessity if American interests are to be protected and American lives saved.

CARMEN STRIKE FOR OVERDUE PAY

NORTH BROOKFIELD, June 5.—Employes of the Warren, Brookfield & Spencer street railway today refused to take out the cars at the regular time, and declared they would not return to work until back pay is made up. The men charge they have received no money for more than two weeks. Superintendent Clark told the men he would guarantee to give them their money before noon, but they refused to run the cars in the meantime.

HOLD 5 AMERICANS AS MEXICAN SPIES

EL PASO, Tex., June 5.—Five men, who claim they are citizens of the United States, are today being rushed to Chihuahua from Juarez, where they were arrested, to stand trial by court martial on a charge of being Maderist spies. The name of only one of the men is known. He is Cura Ortiz, who has lived in this city a number of years. Ortiz's friends are trying to get in communication with General Orozco, the rebel commander-in-chief, to intercede for him. It is feared all five will be summarily executed.

General Francisco Villa, comander of the rurales in the camp of General Huerta, the federal commander at Jiminez, has been ordered to Mexico City to stand trial on the charge of mutiny. He was tried in camp and sentenced to be shot, but pleaded for another trial, and Huerta granted his plea.

VICTORY FOR THE G. T. ROAD

The fight to bring the Grand Trunk to Boston is won. The House of Representatives today unanimously passed the Grand Trunk bill. It now goes to the governor for his signature. The bill will be in the governor's hands before night.

All of the amendments aimed to prevent the Grand Trunk coming to Boston were killed by the House and Senate.

The House passed the bill to engross (meet with the two perfecting amendments attached to it by the Senate.

These amendments had been agreed to by the Railroad Committee, the Railroad Commission and the Grand Trunk Railroad. The passage of the bill for engrossment means that the New Haven and other forces which opposed it have lost their fight. The bill will come back to the House, engrossed, this afternoon. It will be enacted at once, and go to the Senate. The Senate will also enact the bill and it will then go to the Governor.

The Grand Trunk bill was the first matter taken up when the session opened at 10:30 o'clock. Representative Robert M. Washburn, who has led the fight against the bill, rose and in a few sent. The lobby which had been active against the bill had vanished.

The bill had previously been enacted for engrossment and sent to the Senate, where two perfecting amendments were added. With these amendments it was passed for engrossment in the Senate. When the House took similar action by a unanimous voice vote today a messenger took it at once to the office of the Secretary of State.

The engrossing of the bill will occupy about six hours. It will then be returned to the House and the final stages of enacting it into law, lacking only the Governor's signature, will be quickly passed.

TAGALIE WINNER OF DERBY; JAEGER AND TRACERY NEXT

EPSOM, Eng., June 5.—Tagalie, a British horse, owned by Walter Raphael, a millionaire English stock broker, won the classic Derby on Epsom Downs today in the presence of King George, Queen Mary and many other notables. All calculations on form were smashed, as Sweeper II., an American horse which had showed up in the betting as a strong favorite, was unplaced. Jaeger was second and Tracery third. Twenty horses ran. The time was 2:38 4-5. Tracery is owned by August Belmont.

Though the Americans lost $500,000 with which they had backed Sweeper II., owned by Herman B. Duryea, and ridden by Danny Maher, an American jockey, they gained some consolation from the fact that it was another American jockey who piloted Tagalie to victory. This was Johnny Reiff, who in 1907 rode Richard Croker's Orby when that horse captured the great turf classic.

TRADES PARADE HELD IN BROCKTON FETE

BROCKTON, June 5.—A trade parade was held today, a big feature of the Merchants' Week celebration. There were 800 horses in line. Many auto trucks were shown in the procession. All the wagons were decorated and many of them carried a display of merchandise. The parade went from one end of the city to the other. Mayor Harry C. Howard and members of the city government reviewed the parade at City Hall.

THE WEATHER.

CAR CRASHES INTO BRIDGE

Twenty-one people were shaken up and several were painfully injured when an inbound Watertown to Hanover street car jumped the track on the Western avenue bridge in Cambridgeport and plunged through the railing.

The passengers became greatly excited. They sprang out in both directions from the seats of the open car, many falling heavily on the bridge flooring. The car stopped with a third of its length hanging over the water.

When the car lifted from the rails, the motorman twisted hard on the brakes and stuck to his post. To his heroism the fact that the car did not go into the river is attributed.

The bridge is of wood, with a two-inch plank rail along the side.

Ambulances were rushed to the scene from all over Cambridge and Brighton. Many private carriages and automobiles took away those injured or shaken up.

MRS. STUART'S LOVE LETTERS TO SHAW ARE REVEALED AT TRIAL

SHOE MAN ACCUSED OF LARCENY SAYS HE HAD LEGAL RIGHT TO MONEY.

pened in a way I will make plain to you. I doubt if I can with my mind in such a whirl.

After I left you I went to the vault left the package—then out to see Mr. Lovering, by the time I got there they had telephoned him three times from Exchange T. and told him to lose no time in coming down. I told him that I had used the name of C——. They had already telephoned him that they had found out that Mrs. C—— was Mrs. S——, and asked him what he knew about it. It seems that when I left here I went up to the Old C——. Some one was after me, they asked the bond (???) what my name was, of course they found out quick. They also met a man at the A—— House, but failed to see the transfer and they were more interested in me than you just face, so followed me. Mr. L. knows the Exchange people very well, he want down to see them and I came home. They claim that it is forgery to sign another name to a check. I know any one by that name or not, they say there might be a dozen. Well, Mr. L. got there and can say that if I would pay their bank early in the morning with 1095.50 to cover them loss they would not arrest me, but I am afraid of my story. I came home and at 6:30 Alice telephoned me that I must come right over here. So I did right over. At 9 o'clock their telephone rang and Mr. Tibbett, the Exchange assistant cashier, called him up, asking if he knew where I was. They said that they had been at my room for two hours waiting for me to come home, that he had a police inspector with him and they were going to arrest me. He talked with them for a long time and at last they consented to accept a certified check for the amount. Well of course I was there and of all the grilling a person ever got I got it. They found out up here that there was a Mr. Stuart—his description. They went to your office, got your description, asked me if A. S. W. was A. W. S., which I could not answer, asked me if A. W. S. did not live here with me as Stuart. I would not answer. They kept me on the grill for about an hour trying to make me tell who A. S. W. was. They have connected you up with him, and if they have when that draft would be presented you would be arrested when you presented it. When I opened the letter long and the guaranty C. Co. letter came out they stood right here. I am ahead of my story again after they had said all they could to me at the bank, the inspector took me before Chief Inspector Dugan asked me all about myself where I had lived everything about my life. Then they I said known A. W. S. what our relations were I said a friend, had I ever to you have any money? I said you some didn't know just how much. And he me tell you just that long he knew absolutely every thing about you and I, they told me every thing But as yet they are not sure that A. S. W. and A. W. S. are one or he not dare to do any thing. Now I did not have enough money in the bank beside the $2,000 to pay the 1095.50 so had to stop payment on the $3,000 A. W. S. Checks could not stop one without the other but they are still holding my $2,000 so are still $1,095.50 short. Now after that Thursday I mean Friday there has been no one on my track. They seem to figure that you or some one has used my name as tool and tried to take it out of 1095.50. I played simple and ignorant and they swelled it. They asked me if you were going through Bankruptcy or if your wife was getting a divorce from you I said I did not know. They can see no reason for anything they were rather inclined to think it was A. W. S. 2nd who had forged your name they are all at sea, but they all quite agree that I am a much abused woman and who ever did it is a mean cuss to treat a woman so, but they are hot on our tracks. Now I will tell you what I have done to protect your money. I have bought today 4 more shares with what was in old Colony (???)

Fear of Capture.

I drew out 600 cash to live on for one year, it leaves $1,118.75 I am going for one more 20 in the morning that will leave less than 100 there. Now, all B.B.'s are put away where they will never find them, excepting the one I will get tomorrow. You know they can be traced to every $5 coupon but not to a 2nd party. I shall not dare to go near them until this is all blown over, now those three checks you gave me on Commonwealth T. Company must be lost. I don't dare to endorse them. Mr. Mitchell told me they could do nothing with them unless I put my name on them he said to have them made out to bearer, but of course we can't do that now. Now that makes 19 B if I get that one O. K. in the morning which I don't think there is any doubt about—and I have 600 cash which a little later I will put in some bank. They will know you bought B but they don't know I have them and never will get it out of me. I have told the truth so far as little things were concerned and about the big things I knew nothing. Now dear I can do no more don't think of any more schemes to save any more for I will not try to do anything more. I am sore afraid they will get you and bring you back here, but if they do I will never tell that you gave anything to me to care for. You must drop A. S. W. sure. Now don't fail to listen to me for I have told the initial letters were the same.

I shall mail the 3 letters for you from N. Station tomorrow. I shall mail this from So. Station. I don't think that mail that is put in a box inside the station goes through the Boston P. O. but I am afraid your name is in all the large P. O. and may find you that way—I fear—O, I fear everything and everyone. I feel crushed humiliated—disgraced—everything—they said every thing they could think of to me. I cannot sleep or eat or rest. I know that when this comes to a head that they will be after me again, but I can tell them nothing for I know nothing believe me dear always faithful and would die rather than to injure you, but I cant believe you would place me in this position if you had known what it was going to be for me.

Gave Mrs. C. a Hint.

Mrs. C. is here I have given her no hint or trouble and no one has bothered me since she got here she moved in Sat. night.

I asked her if I could have a letter come to her for me she said sure. I hope I have told you every thing. Do not write often but send me another name & address do not stay in L—— A—— long I will not try to say any more now.

May God protect you and keep you safe. Yours Always

G——. (?)

Boston, Feb. 17, 1912.

Dearest—Your telegram received this a. m., but it is too late for me to go to you. The court has been full of newspaper men all day and everything is made public. I am shut in my rooms, and I open the door to no one. As near as I can find out they can bother me to death but can't do anything serious. What they want now is my picture! They can't get it, for no one has one and I shall not go out. Ches is taking care of me. I could not get as far as the corner without a half dozen after me.

Ready for Worst.

I am sure they will try to find something, but they can't. And they can't disgrace me any more. I am waiting for them to make a move. I don't know anything. I can't tell anything, haven't got anything, never had anything. I would surely be traced if I tried to reach you now. We must wait until I can get everything ready, which a chance and fly. Possibly they may arrest me; I don't think they can. I think I ought to consult Mr. Spaulding, to know what to do in case they try to jail me. Now, dear one, even if I am arrested, don't make a sign; get under cover and stay there; drop the A. S. W.; don't write to me; that will wait, it can't last always. This will just about kill my sister, but the Lord is good to me yet, for Ches says she shall stick to me no matter what happens. Nothing can hurt me now, and I shall face everything as bravely as I can. If I can but keep well and strong all will be well. If anything happens to me you will still get what little I have been able to save from the legacy my mother left me. Dear heart, I am alone, no one to advise me, so will have to do the best I can, but they can't kill me, as no murder has been done. This is the last letter I can write you for a long time. Should it fall into other hands there will be no harm done. I am strong for the battle. Don't do anything rash or desperate.

God bless darling, have confidence in your——.

(This letter also contained newspaper clippings.)

"Alice Called Up."

Sunday.

Alice called up and said there was a letter there for me. Ches went over and got it. I wrote you Friday, mailed it at No. 8, at 11.30 a. m. Everything was quiet then, but the Storm Broke Sat. a. m. early. Everything that could possibly be said is in the papers, and from 9 o'clock until 12 last night there was a continuous stream of reporters hanging around here. The first one who came got a look at me. I opened the door. He told me what he wanted. I got back in as soon as I could. He hadn't been gone a minute when the telegram came from you. I just got in and the boy out of sight (burned) there was three more men (burned) in the meantime I got (burned) (burned) to telephone Ches. She got here and the door has not been opened again only for her to go in and out. While she was over to Ae today, a man called to see Mr. Lovering about me; he said he was a friend of his, brother, that they are trying to get my picture for the papers, and are afraid I will skip. I am going to try to get a telegram to you tonight. Why will you not heed My warning, Dear? You seem obsessed to remain in Los A. YOU must not stay in any one place for long at a time not for a while. You don't seem to realize this seriously, I seems like a lark to you. I am going to send you today's clipping. It will tell you what would take me a week to write. Now all papers said I was ill, nervous breakdown; now don't know what it is, I am perfectly well. I am not over nervous, I know they can't touch me on can only detain me as witness against you. Well, I don't know anything and if I ever did I have forgotten it. I don't Know and I can't remember. The money I have saved I earned I have saved and some was left to me. Well they can find out just how much I drew out. If they do they (burned) page before I ever tell where it is. Now I have nothing in a safe deposit box. Ches and I'll is all safe. Now even if they get you (and surely they will for you its no sire of throwing them off) No matter how long they detain you everything will get be well. Even if they put me in jail with you Well and good. We am as good as in jail now I have got Ches. to stay home with me this week will have to pay her for her time but she only gets $100 per so it is worth it not to be all alone. I could not stay all alone (burned). It would be awful. Nothing has been said to the Canutley Trust N. Y. only what the Exchange Trust Co has told them they stopped payment on the Draft over the telephone. I never answered his letter they sent me I don't know what to do about mail you can't write you are on, of course. Ches will be almost as bad. I am afraid of that brother in law of Alice's I think he was the cause of all this mess. I think that when they went to him for reference he coughed up all he knew & more for he did he might tell more now. I mailed a letter to Minnie Williams with one addressed to you inside told her to mail it to Cleveland Ohio where she is Ches took it out to Medford today and mailed it. Ches want out there to see her sister. I'll get this mailed somewhere, but I don't know how I am going to get one from you. You know Dear it will be much safer and better If we do not write for a time. You will know where I am I shall stay here for I am going through an ordeal that will put me to another test, but nothing can shake my love for you disgrace cann not tutch me for I live in a clear conscience that beautiful future with you to love and protect me so long as I live. Now even though you don't write me and I know you will, as you are crazy, I shall remain firm in the stand I have taken. If I had got your telegram in time I should have gone to you at once, with anything with me but when I got it the Storm had broken every movement is watched I cant even get he Telephone the papers are constantly after my picture. Now it would take me 2 days to get things ready to go to you for there is nothing in Boston that belongs o me of any one, but I cant get out yet but this can last. Have sent for Br. Spaulding to come up this morning he left here at 8 o'clock to get the best thing to do was for me to stay right here as I am safe as long as there is no one stick to what I had already said. That I acted through ignorance, in the first place business that was all the money transactions we had had. That I was doing nothing wrong. I am not to speak to any one they must go to Mr. Spaulding and Spaulding knows just what the papers said, only he asked me if I knew where you was, I said No. He said, Well it looks as though he had deserted you, I said no, I delivered to Mr. S. this a. m all of Restraint papers C. Book Receipts, the husband bought the jewels so I have no more to do about that—— Now I must ask you to trust me, I am willing to go through this for your sake. Should you come to Boston now you would only hurt me more and yourself. Stay where you are, the time come I will fly into a haven of rest— Your Dear Arms. Now I am going to answer your questions as best I can, and ask you to forgive me if I make a mistake I think I admitted too much but will not make the same mistake again.

1—I did not admit that Willis and A. W. S. was one and the same and never will.

2—I said Willis was my brother.

3—I admitted that the money I deposited in the T. Co. was yours; you sent me the checks and told me what to do. That was wrong, but I was frightened.

4, 5, 6—I did almost every thing as it was and I did appear injured to district attention, from the fact that I had helped you in any other way.

7—The N. Y. bank letter they have at the Exchange Trust Co. here.

8—I did not ask the bank to return draft.

9—The Three Checks you gave me on Commonwealth T. Co. are put away with the B. and I can't get them yet they were for 9.50 each and mine for 225 they are altogether. Safe you told me to destroy C. Book and I did.—— You see you must stay where you are and Wait It is no harder for you than for me is it? It has gone too far to turn now, and rest assured Darling that I am yours. Now—Always——

I am going to try and telephone a telegram to you, then I must get thi mailed som-way. Dont risk everything by writing to me;—I will write you as often as I can with safety. If you do not hear often try to be reasonable and wait—I tried to get stamps off the letter I wrote last night and burned the corner, but it is not important. I will enclose to days Item—I forgot to ans question about B. Feb. 1st—Ans. 1—7—Total—1—I got 5—had 1—total—17—have 1.500 in cash, and the 1095.50 later I sent this right? Your own G——

I think it will be safe for you to write to me through Minnie Williams she is coming to Boston soon and can deliver it to me, her address other side.

Miss Minnie Williams, care of "The May Co." Cleveland, Ohio. Put on it. Please forward as she may have gone to her next stop.

The message came about 12 o'clock, Ches—stuck her hand out and took it it said: "I am a friend of Mr. Shaw and wish to befriend both he and you but must see you at once to do so. Croker Would Adopt "Diving Venus" Is Very Fond of Annette Kellerman

Former Tammany Boss Takes Famous Swimmer to the Derby.

LONDON, June 5.—Richard Croker wants to adopt Anette Kellerman, "the diving Venus," as his daughter. The amphibious young woman ever whose grace and lovely curves London has gone half mad, so admitted to an AMERICAN correspondent.

"Mr. Croker is a dear old gentleman and has been most kind to me ever since we met," said Miss Kellerman. "He has offered to adopt me as his daughter, but I refused to say whether I will accept his offer."

"Whatever Miss Kellerman says, goes," said Mr. Croker after intently watching her performance at the Music Hall last night. "She can sign her name for anything I've got.

"I wouldn't even mind doing a high dive act," added the king of Glenuirn, laughingly.

"But I'm afraid I've waited too long to attempt that."

Miss Kellerman and Mr. Crocker sailed from New York on the same steamer a few weeks ago. He became so interested in her that he invited her to be his guest and the guest of his family at his Irish place, Glenuirn near Dublin.

She left the ship at Queenstown and remained at Glenuirn two weeks, diversifying the amusements the place afforded by giving her host lessons in physical culture and swimmings.

Mr. Crocker is in London to see the Derby run today. Tommany's former boss took "The Diving Venus" in his motor-car to Epsom Downs for the first day's racing yesterday. He introduced her jokingly as his niece. Immediately gilded youth and impoverished noblemen scrambled to be presented to her, for the rumor flew that any niece of Richard Croker must possess $5,000,000 at least.

Mr. Croker occupied a fifty-cent seat in the Oxford gallery to see Miss Kellerman's diving act last night. When it was learned that Croker was in the house the music hall's manager positely offered his private box. "Thanks," replied Croker—a fine judge of women and horses—"I prefer to stay here. From a box you cannot get a full view of the act." So he remained in his place in the middle of the front row of the balcony and, plainly, vastly enjoyed "a full view" of Miss Kellerman's act.

Mr. Croker did not know it, but he was particularly conspicuous for his was the only dress suit in that part of the house. The jubilance of the gallery greatly agitated his sweating clothes and seemed flattered that one so arrayed should be with them.

"Yes, Mr. Croker introduced me as his niece at the races today," laughed "the most perfectly formed woman" in her dressing room. "But that was only for a lark. There was great fun after the first introduction. Mr. Croker's friend, George Edwardes, the theatrical manager, came to the box. He had never seen me, so, when he went away he pointed me out to his friends as Mr. Croker's niece."

ECZEMA ON LIMB ITCHED DREADFULLY

Scratched in Sleep, Spread Rapidly, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Worked Wonders, Stopped Itching and In Less Than a Week Healed Entirely. Cost 75 Cents.

37 Whitney Ave., Cambridge, Mass.—"My trouble was eczema. It began by my hose-supporter rubbing and poisoning the skin on my leg just above the knee. The eruption was small pimples which itched dreadfully. When I scratched them they would scab over and they itched so nights that I scratched the scabs off in my sleep. They spread rapidly. I used witch hazel, different cancer salves but nothing did it any good until a neighbor told me how her hands were cracked open and bleeding and that Cuticura cured her. I had been to so much expense buying remedies that did no good that I sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment before using. They worked wonders. They stopped the itching when heated from the bed, and in less than a week's time it had healed entirely, after using a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap, costing but 75c." (Signed) Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Nov. 25, 1911.

HEAD MASS OF ITCHING HUMOR

Today a Well. Owes It to Cuticura Remedies.

Montgomery, Ala.—"I was a sufferer from an itching on my head. It grew worse and worse until my head was in a mass of raw, itching sores and it was spreading on my face and neck. I was bothered two years with that plague. Everything that anyone would recommend to me all failed. Today I am well and owe it all to the Cuticura Remedies." (Signed) T. M. Hays, Sept. 30, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Yender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

EX-FIANCEE OF KENNARD TALKS

CHICAGO, June 5.—With the declaration that no man should marry who is not capable of supporting a wife without depending on his mother, should even think of matrimony, William R. Manierre, the wealthy father of Wilhelmine Manierre, who jilted Reginald Parry Kennard of Boston, has jumped into the maelstrom of talk that the broken troth of his daughter and young Kennard has created.

"No," said Mr. Manierre, "I hold that no young man should begin to think of marrying until he is firmly established in a permanent enterprise. No young man, who is dependent on his mother for his income, should contemplate taking a wife. I do not object to young Mr. Kennard personally, but that is where I stand."

"Young Kennard's brothers are reported as saying that my daughter found Boston too poky, and therefore refused to marry her fiance. The truth is she decided to let Kennard and she were incompatible. She made the decision on her own initiative, without any suggestion from me. Kennard's relatives talk as if they felt pitifully toward my daughter, and me. I'm sorry for this, as I have never felt any thing but kindness for the young man.

"The boy was sick in Chicago several months ago, and I had him taken to my home until he was well and able to return East."

And, at last, Miss Wilhelmine herself has taken a hand in the discussion. She said:

"The engagement was not broken because Mr. Kennard was tied to his mother's apron strings, or because Boston was too slow and poky, or because Mr. Kennard was a $10 a week clerk. Mr. Kennard and I discovered that we were unsuited for each other and amicably considered that it was best that the engagement terminate. We are still friends."

FATHER OF GOVERNOR FOSS GROWS WEAKER

The condition of George H. Foss, the aged father of Governor Foss, who is seriously ill at his home, No. 13 Everett street, Jamaica Plain, was unchanged today, except that the invalid seemed to be weaker. Because of his advanced age there is little hope of recovery. Mr. Foss has been sick for several years. His son, the Governor and family, keep in constant touch with the condition of the sick man.

FIREBUG'S ATTEMPT KILLS EVERETT MAN

George Whittier, a well-known resident of Everett, died at his home, No. 2 Hampshire street, today, as the result of a shock received when a fireug attempted to burn down his home two weeks ago. Mr. Whittier was ill and confined to his bed when the attempt was made to destroy his home. A shock followed and his death came as a result.

Methodist Pastors Goin' Fishin' Monday

Regular Meeting Is Called Off for a Day's Outing Down the Harbor.

Boston Methodist ministers are going fishing next Monday instead of holding their regular meeting in Wesleyan Hall.

The minister who catches the largest fish and later tells the biggest fish story will be entitled to address the ministers on any subject that he cares to talk about at the last meeting of the ministers. He can talk politics or he can talk religion. Those who attend are obliged to listen to him and no one will be allowed to reply to him. The minister who does not catch any fish will be entitled to a booby prize, the nature of which is kept secret by the committee.

Lines and bait will be furnished by the minister who has hired the boat. Rev. George E. Heath of South Boston.

Among those who have negotiations for fishing and can pick anything out of the sea with a hook are Rev. Lorin H. Hughes, D.D. of Malden, Rev. Webster H. Powell and Rev. George S. Otto of Forest Hills. But there are others.

Rostron Weathers Storm of Kisses

NEW YORK, June 5.—Captain A. H. Rostron of the Carpathia, found it trying business being a hero when scores of pretty girls stormed the bridge and kept the captain busy bestowing snacks on as many blushing fins.

The Carpathia was outward bound for Mediterranean ports, and medals of Congressional Gold Cross, awarded by wealthy women, who were widowed by the sinking of the Titanic and conveyed by Captain Rostron's ship, were but things of memory.

An hour before the Carpathia's sailing the dock was crowded, and pretty girls in flimsy summer frocks formed a large part of the throng. Many of them smiled and sang up the gangways and to the sacred precincts of the bridge. There, whipped at attention, the gallant captain was kept busy accoding to blushing requests for words of Hebrew wisdom. The souvenirs the diplomatic young captain of the Carpathia bestowed in this fashion are many as the medals the Titanic's survivors' committee hung on the chests of the Carpathia's crew a few days ago.

"Beauty" Beach Is Indicted at Aiken

AIKEN, S. C., June 5.—Frederick C. (Beauty) Beach, clubman and member of the Exclusive Winter colony here has been indicted by the Grand Jury today on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. It is alleged that on March the night of February 29, Mr. Beach locked his wife, Mrs. Camilla Beach and about the throat. Beach and his wife are still living together.

2,000 CHILDREN TO SEE DURBAR

Next Saturday morning Tremont Temple will be filled from floor to gallery with 2,000 children natived with bunting and pennants, along "Red to Red" and "Black Rock" one in that great audience will be filled with wonder to learn that there has come to be a new word in the English language. The word is "Kiteanocrat," from the far east and besides nearly all to be found in school books there are to those who have not time to look it up in a dictionary the meaning of "Kiteanocrat." Should they do so they would discover that Durbar is another word meaning the same thing. Now that "Kiteanocrat" is a commonplace word in the vocabularies of the children they produced the necessary nerves and they will be present at the Durbar. And this is exactly what it is to be. Its bill boards are pictures of bright dressed elephants, camels and horses, and its tent is Tremont Temple these animals and many more will be seen in a way as near to natural coloring of the original scenes when the King and Queen of England traveled through India a little more than a year ago. Miss Jordan Dances for Sake of Charity

NEW YORK, June 5.—As the result of collaboration between three amateurs of society of this city and Boston and entertainers well known in the professional world, $3,000 was raised at a vaudeville show and dance last evening at the Hotel Astor for the west of the committee for the prevention of infant mortality of the New York Milk Committee.

Boston was represented in the program by Miss Dorothy M. Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan, who came to show her interest in a project in which she has been an active worker in her native city. Incidentally she proved in New York that she is expert of her company as a dancer as well as one not been exaggerated.

Associated with Miss Jordan were Mrs. Hooper Mathews, Miss Olga Wilson and two women, amateurs, who formed a trio and then produced the dances of Miss Jordan. And this is exactly what it is to be. Its bill boards are pictures of bright dressed elephants, camels and horses, and its tent is Tremont Temple these animals and many more will be seen in a way as near to natural coloring of the original scenes when the King and Queen of England traveled through India a little more than a year ago. The youngsters will forget that they are in matter-of-fact Boston

VALUE OF NEW TONIC RECOGNIZED

Many Bostonians Now Realize Its True Worth

Bostonians are beginning to realize what a remarkable preparation the new tonic Tona Vita is.

Statements by many people who have tested the tonic are of an exceedingly favorable character, and the demand for the preparation is growing rapidly.

Richard J. Ryan of 17 Vine street, Charlestown, Mass, is among those who have given Tona Vita a trial. He made the following statement at a leading drug store recently: "I have been in poor health for several years. Physicians did not seem to help me and I took a good deal of medicine.

"I slept poorly, was nervous and despondent, and seldom had an appetite. What food I did eat seldom agreed with me.

"A short time ago I got some Tona Vita and I have taken it regularly since. From the very first I was benefited by this new medicine, and I now feel like a well man for the first time in several years. This tonic has done more for me than I thought possible."

A surprising amount of ill health is caused by nervous debility. This ailment is produced by the conditions met with in modern city life. Half the people in the larger cities find life a burden as a result of this "run-down condition," as it is called.

Such people have uncertain appetites, poor digestion, little ambition and they feel too worn out to do justice to their work. They suffer from timidity, have insinuative, and are drowsy and restless, with their minds dull and their memories poor. Their nerves are in such a state that they imagine themselves afflicted with various diseases at different times. The real trouble with them is debility produced by the lives they are forced to lead. Tona Vita is one of the allies among country people where they are able to lead a more wholesome existence.

A similar preparation to Tona Vita was a pronounced success in Europe. The tonic is just being introduced in the United States and is the best preparation of the kind ever before sold to the American public. It will positively eliminate nervous debility and build up the general system in a comparatively short time. Tona Vita can now be purchased at all leading drug stores in Boston.

MASCIOLI TO DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR TONIGHT

Woman to Be Sent to Sherborn to Serve Her Sentence.

was buried in the sand under the porch of their house at Hull for three weeks and then, fearing discovery, it was wrapped up and tossed into the ocean.

Lawyer Thomas F. Grady told the Council that he had tried to get Marcioli to make a statement that would help the woman, but that he refused.

"If they save her they must save me," said Marcioli. "Let the matter rest as it is."

Lawyer Grady also told the Council that if he thought the woman was in danger of going to the death chair he would divulge facts that Marcioli had given to him some time ago that would show the woman had nothing to do with the crime.

Fr. Murphy Heard.

After Lawyers Grady and Coughlan, for Mrs. Cusumano, and District Attorney Barker, who prosecuted the murder case, had addressed the Council, it went into executive session to hear the testimony from Rev. Fr. Murphy, the spiritual director of the two prisoners.

While the public had not been permitted to attend the hearing, except as represented by the newspaper men, the reporters were excluded while the Rev. Fr. Murphy was telling what he knew about the case.

Alexander McGregor, who was absent last week when the Council was tied, was on hand today. Before entering the Council room Mr. McGregor talked with Mrs. Laurio, the mother of Mrs. Cusumano; the Rev. Father Murphy, the woman's spiritual adviser; Warden Bridges and State officials. It was felt Mr. McGregor was favorably inclined to commutation or sentence in the case of the woman, although he would not indicate what his action would be.

Sister's Testimony.

Lawyer Grady told the Council he had witnesses who would testify that Mrs. Indelgato, sister of Mrs. Cusumano, was willing to make an affidavit the condemned woman is innocent, but that Indelgato would not let her.

"This sister" asserted Grady, "did not dare to come here and testify to this, after having testified differently at the trial, for fear that she would be arrested for perjury."

Lieutenant-Governor Luce—What do you think of the question of perjury, Mr. Attorney General Swift?

Attorney General Swift—I consider it one of the gravest of offences. But it would not come under my jurisdiction.

Lieutenant-Governor Luce—What have you to say? (Turning to District Attorney Barker, of Plymouth county, who prosecuted the case.)

Mr. Barker—If she wants to come and testify I'd like to have her do it.

District Attorney Barker did not intimate what action he would take if the woman told her new story. Councillor Collins advised that all of the testimony on that phase of the case be eliminated and Councillor McGregor thought it best not to have Mrs. Indelgato brought before the Council. It was decided not to bring her before the Council.

Lawyer Coughlan, in closing his argument, said:

"If Lena Cusumano is electrocuted the State will be taking the life of an innocent woman."

Councillor Goetting remarked that he had read in newspapers that Marcioli had confessed. Mr. Coughlan replied that was not true. Lawyer Grady related the following conversation walch he and Marcioli had.

Talk With Marcioli.

Grady—Marcioli, will you tell me the truth so that I can tell it to the Council?

Marcioli—If they save the woman they will have to save me.

Grady—It may be too late to do any good with a statement from you after the Council has voted.

Marcioli—Well, leave the matter as it is.

The lawyer then told the Council that if he had any doubt that justice would be done Mrs. Cusumano he would tell of another conversation he had with Marcioli that would absolutely prove that Mrs. Cusumano was innocent. This conversation was some time ago and presumably was a talk between lawyer and client. Mr. Grady sat down without having divulged what that talk was.

Councillor Collins said: "I understand, Mr. Grady, that your contention is that the motive of this crime was robbery; that she was an accessory after the fact; that she had no knowledge of the murder until it fell from the lips of Marcioli and that she should not have been convicted of murder in the first degree."

"That is our contention," replied Grady.

Both sides agreed that the statement made to the Council by Mrs. Cusumano today and what she said on the witness stand were inconsistent.

"Now, what we want," remarked Mr. Luce, "is something to show the credibility or the incredibility of the statement Mrs. Cusumano sent us today."

Mrs. Cusumano's Statement

Charlestown, Mass., June 4, 1912.

I did not hire anyone to hurt or kill, and I had nothing to do with the killing of my husband, Frank Cusumano, and did not know he had been killed until Harry Marshall (Enrico Mascioli) came down into the basement where I was working washing my dishes and showed me the axe covered with blood. When I saw it I was so overcome I could not speak.

Harry Marshall said to me:

"I killed Frank. You no speak to me? Just the same axe I take off your head."

I did not answer. He said:

"I want to know if you gotta no money. You got a hundred dollars. Give it to me now. Ah, you now cry! Give it to me."

I had the money in my stocking. I was afraid and I gave him the money. It was a hundred dollars. He wanted me then to go upstairs and help him take the body out. He say: "You done the deed, you take the body out."

Then he went upstairs alone. When he came down again he said the room was locked up and when it was dark tonight he would take the body away and put it in the sand under the piazza.

After three weeks he told me he was afraid the body would smell and he would put it in the water. About 12 o'clock one night he said he was going to put the body of Frank in the water. He came back to the house at 4 o'clock in the morning and said he had done it.

The first time I saw Frank's body after he was killed was when I saw it at Hingham. When the body was found Harry Marshall said to me:

"Lena, they find Frank's body. It is over to Hingham. They can't tell it is Frank because he aint got no moustache, no hair and no teeth."

I cry. He said: "What you cry for? They can't tell it is Frank. He aint got no hair, no moustache, no teeth."

The morning of the Sunday when Frank was killed, Frank ask me, when Harry was there, for two hundred dollars and said he was going to pay it on the mortgage on the house. Harry saw me give it to my husband, and they both went off together. They both came back together, and Frank said they did not pay the money. He did not give the money back to me. The money that Harry got from me in the afternoon was my own money—it was not any of the money which I gave Frank in the forenoon.

When he took the money away from me he say:

"Now I'm the boss of the house. You keep your mouth shut, you'll be all right. I've got all the money now, and if you open your mouth I'll leave you on the street and go away."

Almost every day he say to me.

"If you tel l anything about it I kill you."

KILL 1, WOUND 3 IN NEW YORK GANG WAR

NEW YORK, June 5.—One man was murdered and three others wounded in another battle in New York's underworld gang warfare today. The police believe three separate gang feuds are raging. The dead man is Rocco Tanzoni, a young Italian known as the "Head Brunswell of the Bronx." He was shot to death while passing a dark doorway in Morris avenue, the Bronx. This murder is charged to the Lupo-Morello gang. The second shooting occurred at Third avenue and Fifteenth street, and the victim was Dick Curley, a prize fight promoter. He mysteriously disappeared after the shooting. Four men in a taxicab supplied their guns at him as he was entering a restaurant accompanied by two girls. Charles Lewis and Anthony Augerso were shot down at Second avenue and Ninth street. Three men, who gave the names of Frank Hart, Alfred Leonardo and James Martello, were arrested.

MINISTERS DEMAND RECALL OF BREEN

LAWRENCE, June 5.—Following the action of the Lawrence Central Labor Union in passing resolutions asking for the recall of John J. Breen, a member of the School Committee, the Ministers' Association has called for his resignation. "If Mr. Breen does not offer his resignation," the clergymen said in a resolution, "we favor the taking of immediate steps for his recall." Breen was found guilty in connection with the placing of dynamite about Lawrence while the big strike was on. He was fined $500 and paid the fine.

CADETS WIN ALL ANNAPOLIS GIRLS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—For the first time in history practically all the marriageable young women in Annapolis will become wives on a single day when the first class in the Naval Academy is graduated on Friday. The honeymoons, however will be very short, as every one of the youthful husbands will be ordered to the fleet.

CANADIAN CRASH KILLS BOSTON MAN

WINNIPEG, June 5.—The Winnipeg Calgary express on the Canadian Pacific was wrecked two miles east of Gull Lake, Railway officials say that no one was killed. Several were hurt. Earlier in the day the Canadian Pacific express running between Calgary and Edmonton was wrecked at Strome, Alberta. Several were injured and George Young of Boston was killed.

The Comfort and Economy of Tourist Sleeping Cars in Traveling to the Pacific Coast

I would like to explain to you just what a Tourist Sleeping car is, what conveniences and comforts they have and how you can save money by joining one of our through parties, which go to the coast every week in one of these cars, escorted by a special conductor employed by the "Burlington Route" to look after your comfort. For many years the Burlington Route Through Tourist Car Excursions to California have been widely known for the excellence of the service provided, and the character of the employes in charge. The whole idea of these parties is to provide a way for people of moderate means to make the California trip comfortably and in thoroughly good hands, and at the same time at an expense that is not prohibitive. Please call at the office or write a postal will do. Mrs. Blocks, New England Passenger Agent, C. B. & Q. R. R., 264 Washington Street, Boston, Mass. Telephone Main 4387.

ROOSEVELT WILL FIND CLARK NO MEAN ORATOR

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

If Champ Clark should face Theodore Roosevelt in this presidential campaign let no man think that the Democratic Speaker of the House will be overmatched by the ex-President.

The opposite will be true.

Champ Clark is one of the very best all-around campaign speakers that the country has ever known. He has every equipment for the magnificent figure which he has always made upon the hustings.

Let us reduce a sweeping assertion to illustration.

I think that no man who has kept in touch with Senatorial and political oratory in this decade will deny that Jonathan P. Dolliver when he died was easily counted the best debater upon the Republican side of the United States Senate, and one of the best, if not the best, all-around campaign speakers on that side of the political divide. He was everywhere in demand.

In 1903-4 I was lecturing in the Middle West and was in touch with the movements of men and ideas in that great section, between Pittsburg and Omaha.

Clark Praised as an Orator.

During this period the sensations of the Summer Chautauqua platforms and of the political hustings were the widely advertised twenty-five champion debates between Champ Clark and Jonathan P. Dolliver upon the tariff. These debates reached high-water mark in the State of Iowa, where Dolliver was the idol, and in Champ Clark's State of Missouri.

On the morning after the great clash of argument and eloquence in Des Moines, the morning newspaper, the Leader, Republican and of Dolliver's faith, edited by Allen Dawson, now editor of the New York Globe, had an editorial which in substance declared:

"There are few people in Iowa who are willing to believe that there is any greater orator and debater than Jonathan P. Dolliver. But one more such masterful speech as Champ Clark made at the capital yesterday will reduce Dolliver to second place in his own State of Iowa."

The sentiment was almost universal throughout Republican Iowa that Champ Clark, holding the unpopular side of the argument, had worsted the redoubtable Iowan on his own ground.

I have heard a dozen leading Republicans say that it was true, and I learned from one of these last week that the debates were prematurely closed by Dolliver's friends because of the apprehension that the prestige of Clark's superb work on the hustings would injuriously affect Dolliver's chances in the approaching senatorial election.

An Expert on Tariff.

Champ Clark knows far more about the tariff than Roosevelt does, and more than almost any other man in the House or Senate. He has held the stake in front of the Speaker's desk for ten years against all comers in an annual speech on the tariff, and has never yet been worsted by Payne or Dalzell or Joe Cannon or Grosvenor at their best.

Champ Clark has a much better voice than Roosevelt, a far more magnetic and imposing presence, fully as much fire and fervor as the Oyster Bay man, and is better posted upon the affairs of legislation for the quarter century in which we live.

The massive, rugged, magnificent-looking Speaker has been so tied to leadership and routine legislation for a decade that many men have forgotten the superb swing and dash of the Missouri giant when he is unfettered for battle before the people.

Speaker a Hustler.

It was Champ Clark's speech nominating the staid and sober Cockrell which created the maddest scene of enthusiasm that the Democratic National Convention of 1904 knew in St. Louis.

It was Champ Clark's oration at the great Democratic Jubilee at Baltimore (Robert La Follette being witness) which held in the shade the demonstrations over Bailey and Harmon and Bryan and Wilson, as it did later at Cardinal Gibbons's fiftieth jubilee, over Roosevelt and Taft and every other man on the program.

If the Rough Rider of American politics enters the Presidential campaign with the idea that he has anything electrical to offer any vote winning on the Lion of the Tribe of Missouri he has a rude awakening in store.

The Presidential hustings will find Champ Clark equal to its highest demands, and to Roosevelt's most impassioned assaults.

CHICAGO FIGHT ALREADY BEGUN

CHICAGO, June 5.—Workers for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who are gathered here for the Republican national convention, were busy today trying to place obstacles in the way of the steam roller. With only one more day intervening before the machinery begins to move, they were busy with final plans for the contest. Many supporters of the Oyster Bay candidate today turned their attention to the national committeemen as they arrived in town. Efforts were made to line these men up with the colonel.

On the National Committee's attitude largely depends the result of the delegate contests, while on the result of these contests the nomination depends.

WATTERSON ON CHAMP CLARK

LOUISVILLE, June 5.—Under the caption, "Let Democrats Reason Together," Colonel Henry Watterson says in the Courier Journal:

At Baltimore the Democrats are not only to nominate a candidate for President. They are not only to put a ticket in the field. They are actually to make a President, because, to leave Roosevelt and Roosevelitism out of the question, no party, deliberated and butchered as the Republicans now are, can hope to prevail in a national election. It is next to certain that there will be two Republican chiefmasts, as twice there have been two Democratic chiefmasts making a deadly breach.

House Democrats must consider, not alone the availability of the man they nominate, but the character of the man they are to put in the White House.

In 1884 James B. Blackburn was the Woodrow Wilson of the Eastern fancy. He was the ideal thing. He safeguarded the echoing and the sane. He was beaten in the National Democratic Convention of that year by James K. Polk, who had been Governor of Tennessee and Speaker of the Representative branch of Congress, one of Champ Clark's predecessors in that great office.

The wiseacres were in despair.

"We are lost, indeed," said Daniel S. Dickinson.

"Polk," cried Robert P. Letcher, "great God, what a nomination."

Yet Polk was elected. He was, indeed, the one man who could beat Henry Clay. And when he came into the White House, a quiet, able man, educated like Champ Clark, in one of the minor colleges, he made a splendid success of his administration.

The Democratic party wants a Democrat, a Democrat tried and true, in the White House. We don't want a man there who thinks himself too great, and whose friends think and tell him he is so great, that when the test comes he is good for nothing. Champ Clark has been at Washington long enough to know who's who and what's what. He ought to be and is good enough for plain people that want a man and not an angel for their President.

Champ Clark is simply a man—an honest man—a man of ability and education—a man of flesh and blood. He is a Democrat. On every essential issue of the time he is as sound as a seasoned timber and as straight as a shingle. If we cannot elect him we can elect no one."

POLITICAL BRIGANDS, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Colonel Roosevelt calls the election of six Taft delegates-at-large in Ohio an act of "political brigandage."

Roosevelt sweeps South Dakota by 10,000 and gets ten fast delegates in Chicago.

Anyone guard of Republicans reach Chicago. Roosevelt men to fight Root to a finish as temporary chairman of the convention.

President Taft claims 580 votes.

Senator Dixon, Roosevelt's manager, disputes it and says Taft's nomination is a "physical impossibility."

Republican National Committee opens hearings tomorrow on 266 cases of contested delegates.

Clark secures 15 delegates in Louisiana and Governor Wilson 7.

West Virginia gives Clark 10 delegates and 2 to Governor Harmon.

Governor Wilson loses 19 votes in Ohio to Governor Harmon through the application in the Republican convention of the unit rule for delegates.

Speaker Clark has a strong lead in delegates elected to Baltimore. (Roll Call, 425; Wilson (including Pennsylvania), 223; Harmon, 98; Underwood, 84; Marshall, 30; Baldwin, 11; Burke, 10.

Roosevelt district delegates from the Seventh and Ninth Massachusetts districts write Chairman Barnes they will not support Root at Chicago for temporary chairman.

Maryland Taft men lost Root's nomination for the temporary chairmanship and will join Roosevelt supporters.

Ambassador Guild sails for Europe without saying anything more definite upon his candidacy for senator.

Pope Photographed With American Flag

ROME, June 5.—For the first time in the history of the Vatican the American flag was carried through its streets yesterday by stately American boys. The Pontifical Zouaves, the papal guard, paraded in full military honors to the Stars and Stripes. The Hall of Benedictines was presented a brilliant spectacle, to say nothing of the Americans and papal flags mingled.

The choristers began to sing Arnaldo's "Ave" as soon as the Pope appeared, followed by Bishop Kennedy, rector of the American College.

The Pontiff seated himself on his throne, and while melodious sacred music followed each other, his face betrayed his keenest pleasure. The singing ceased and the whole choir knelt simultaneously. The Pope arose and for the first time in his audible expressions to his 500 ecclesiastics:

"Bravo, bravo!"

Then His Holiness slowly advanced toward Father Wilfrid O'Gorman, rector of the church of the Holy Ghost, and knelt. The Pope laid his hands on Father O'Gorman's head and conferred on him the degree of Master of Canterbury.

Just as the Pope was about to retire Bishop Kennedy asked him if he would bless the flag. Benedict XV. replied by posing for a photograph.

The Pope immediately retraced his steps, clapping his hands and seeming to be for a time quite gay.

But he refused to take the foremost position in the picture, and the American flag was placed by his side.

VAIL, PHONE HEAD, SEES GOOD TIMES

LONDON, June 5.—Theodore N. Vail, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who has been on the Riviera since March, is in London to call on the King tomorrow. Mr. Vail, in a talk with a correspondent, Mr. Vail said of conditions in America:

"The financial condition was never better. More money is now in use than ever before. There is no strain on credit, there is comparatively little speculation, and prosperity is assured for the fall months. Another thing—I think business is putting home from politics, no matter what political news comes along. We have seen the end of panic scares. We are getting to a more normal condition. The American people have their heads level. I believe that there are two sides to the question of tariff revision, but I think it is wise just for politics I think we would not have any agitation of the subject in the country at our convention time in Chicago."

Copper Share Trading Is Brisk In Local Market

W. H. ROSS

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, June 5—Midday: The Boston market opened generally firm and was active. The copper issues had an upward tendency. During the morning Calumet & Hecla rose 7 points, Arizona 1½, Quincy 1½, and Lake a point, while gains were made by other issues, including Allouez, North Butte and Shattuck & Arizona. Old Colony, Chino and Butte Superior sold lower in early trading.

The Old Dominion Company of Maine has declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share. The rate three months ago was 75 cents, six months ago 50 cents and 50 cents extra and a year ago 50 cents a share. The United Globe Mines has declared a dividend of $4.50 per share, all of which accrues to the Old Dominion Company of Maine as holder of the 23,000 shares outstanding.

New York Market Opens Firm.

The New York market had a firm tone at the opening, with hard coal roads occupying the most conspicuous position in the trading. Reading and Lehigh Valley each advanced a point. American Tobacco and American Sugar Refining Company were strongest among the specialties.

On the Curb United Cigar Stores equalled its new high record which it made yesterday. After closing Tuesday with 231 bid and 240 asked, the stock opened today with 241 bid and 242 asked.

Among the other gains made were: Steel common, up ⅛; Erie preferred, ⅝; Union Pacific, ¼; Missouri Pacific, ¼; Canadian Pacific, ¼, and Southern Pacific, ⅜. The Curb was dull and steady. Business on the London exchange was light, as the bulk of traders and brokers were absent attending the Derby. Americans in London were dull with a drooping tendency.

If the London copper metal market spot opened with an advance of 7s. 6d., while futures were up 8s. 9d.

July Copper Very Scarce.

It is understood that there is a great scarcity of July copper in the market and that it is now hard for consumers who are not sufficiently supplied with spot metal to get what they require. Reports as to the amount of the red metal being sold at the present quotation are at variance. There are agitations to the effect that sales have been heavy, but one authority says: "Such transactions, however, were not general, for some of the large agencies were willing to rave for the consumers' requirements in August at 17¾ cents a pound."

It is stated that the American Smelting & Refining Company has so far broken the strike at Baltimore that it is working its refinery there at three-quarters capacity. The effect of the labor trouble at the plant, it is stated, upon the May copper spot will be an extraordinary shortage in point of shipments to Europe and a curtailed production.

Thompson, Towle & Co. say: "The head of one of the leading copper selling agencies expresses to us great fear of a runaway market for metal on account of the low stocks of spot, and the failure of many of the leading consumers to have covered their requirements for June. We are informed that one of the three largest consumers of copper in the United States is practically out of the market and has thereby failed to meet their requirements, which will amount to about 30,000 tons of copper in the near future. The immediate effect of this is to create a runaway market, but it is plain that purchasers have not the metal to meet the situation, and a large percentage of the stocks of metal that will help the situation are sold through August, and we know of a number of other large purchases who are sold out for three months. In considering the current copper production that Tamarack is now producing close to 12 cents a pound, and that for some time past the cost of that from the Lake Superior has averaged nine cents. For the latter a reduction of about a cent a pound has been made within a few weeks through labor troubles and as the result of physical exhaustion of the property. Houghton Gleaner states that the regrinding and concentrating plant is now handling 1,000 tons a day, and that 1,000 tons of rock yield 1,000 tons, from which 20,000 pounds of copper can be extracted at a cost of 9 cents a pound.

Called as "Money Trust" Witnesses.

The House Banking and Currency Committee has subpoenaed Frank A. Vanderlip, William Sherer, James H. Curran and A. Barton Hepburn to appear before it as witnesses at the "money trust" investigation hearing to be held in New York tomorrow, when some probing into Clearing House and stock exchange methods is expected. The session will be held in a room in the Custom House, where the New York Stock Exchange and Clearing House, has been directed to bring records of their business with the Harriman lines to the latter's New York rechristening. The Harriman companies and the United States Steel Corporation are the only companies specifically enjoined from dealing in the shares of the Exchange and Clearing House, but it is understood that some banks and brokers were also subpoenaed to appear. Attorney Untermyer has been instructed that national banking laws forbid them to issue loans their business transactions. It is understood that some banks are refusing to accept the loans of such stocks as collateral. What the committee will try to do to declare bankers is an interesting question.

Financial News in Brief.

President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio has been elected to the Reading road directorate to succeed Oscar Murray.

New Chicago & Alton financing provides for the issue of $20,000,000 6 per cent. general mortgage bonds to retire the present improvement and equipment mortgages and to provide money for general betterments, terminal enlargements and other purposes. About $5,000,000 of the new bonds have been underwritten and will be offered for sale at once. Chicago & Alton net operating income for April decreased $130,800 and for decrease for ten months was $357,502.

Bids for $2,000,000 Erie bonds called on the New York Stock Exchange to sold at 241½, and the Canadian Pacific at 241¾, results to which the issues were matched.

The May shipments of the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad, which today owns nearly control, earnings of the United States Steel Corporation, of which it is a subsidiary, were 1,115,000 tons, a month over the road amounted to 1,115,000 tons, which breaks all records.

It is rumored in Pittsburg that the financing for the Rapid Transit to obtain funds for the new subways will be in the form of a six-year 5 per cent. notes instead of the bond issue which has been reported. At Kuhn, Loeb & Co.'s office it was said that the financing method would depend upon the approval of the Public Service Commission and the Court of Appeals decision upon the preferential payment question. In short, nothing has been decided.

The Tennessee Natural Gas Company will take over a majority of natural gas companies in and around Buffalo and will increase its capital stock from $100,000 to $10,000,000 and issue securities to the amount of $5,927,500, to acquire all such properties and rights included in the merger, which is financed by the New York Public Service Commission.

It is understood in Pittsburg that during the last quarter the Crucible Steel Company earned at the rate of 14 per cent. per annum upon its preferred stock, or double dividend requirements.

It is reported on the New York Curb that the United Railways Company of Baltimore will announce new financing and that dividends may be resumed on the common stock in returns. Annual earnings will increase the surplus over $3,000,000 to $4,000,000. At the close of 1911 the Consolidated Gas Company of the Monumental City had $8,000,000 net surplus, which Baltimore system amounted to $4,000,000, equivalent to $17.60 a share on its outstanding stock. The Baltimore Curb quotation is now of this accumulated surplus at about $30 per share and the common at 500 stock.

The Hudson and New York Railroad Company's surplus, December 31, 1910, amounted to $1,356,000, and the Lackawanna Railroad Company, December 31, 1911, brought the total to $2,250,000, leaving $1,000,000 deducted in the latter case for the purchase of the Cayuga & Susquehanna Railroad, at the end of the present fiscal year. Consequent on which the surplus balance will reach $2,250,000 or $50 per share on the outstanding common stock.

FIFTY BELGIAN RIOTERS SHOT

BRUSSELS, June 5.—At an extraordinary session of the Belgian cabinet to-day, it was decided to take the sternest measures against the Socialists who have participated in rioting because the Clerical party won in the elections. Baron Debroqueville, premier of Belgium said the government is well able to handle the situation, having been warned beforehand that an uprising might be attempted.

Fifty rioters were shot in a clash with the police.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY DEGREES AWARDED

President Lemuel H. Murlin of Boston University today gave degrees to 234 graduates at the forty-third commencement in Tremont Temple.

Rev. Alexander Mann of Trinity Church delivered the baccalaureate sermon on "The Power of Praise." The invocation was by Rev. Willard T. Perrin of Boston University.

The procession to the temple was led by Professor E. Charlton Black, the marshal. He was followed by President Murlin, Dr. Mann, former Governor John L. Bates, the trustees, the faculty and then the candidates for degrees. Milo C. Green, class marshal, led the eighty-six candidates seeking the degree of B. A.

NIGHT ADRIFT IN MOTOR BOAT

NEW BEDFORD, June 5.—After drifting for more than twelve hours in an 40-ft power boat, Frederick Lorraine, known as the "Coffee King," of the city and a member of the New Bedford Yacht Club, four members of his family and friends were picked up early today by Dr. William C. Macey and William J. Dunne off Ned's Point, Buzzards Bay. The whole party was in an exhausted condition.

The Lorraine party was made up of his son John, Mr. and Mrs. John Fritz and their daughter, Lillian. Mr. Fritz is a brother-in-law of Lorraine. Yesterday afternoon the party left the yacht club for a cruise down the bay. Early last evening a heavy fog set in.

Dr. Macey and Dunne left at one o'clock this morning to find the missing one. About six they sighted the craft just off the residence of Charles S. Hamlin at Ned's Point.

They had been drifting about for hours when they struck a rock at Strawberry Point. Mrs. Fritz and her daughter suffered greatly from exposure and fright. Mr. Lorraine explained his engine stopped and he could not start it.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pearsall have adopted as their son and heir Phillip Hichborn, the infant son of Phillip S. Hichborn, who killed himself last March because of despondency over the elopement of his wife, formerly Miss Elinor Hoyt, with Horace Wylie.

Mrs. Pearsall, who was Miss Martha Hichborn, was Mr. Hichborn's sister, and it was in her home that he died his life.

The terms of the adoption authorized by Judge D. T. Wright in the Supreme Court permits the child to assume the name of Pearsall.

The petition reviewed the story made familiar by the tragedy, and stated that the antecedents of the child's mother is now unknown.

NIGHT BIKE RACES START AT NEWARK

A twenty-five mile motor paced race will inaugurate the season of night racing at the Newark Velodrome tonight. The competitors will be Ernie Pye of Australia, Nat Butler of Boston and George Wiley of Syracuse. Three professional and two amateur sprint races will make up the remainder of the card. Frank Kramer, Alfred Grenda and Carlo Mesaeri will meet in a three-mile handicap and two-mile scratch race.

FATAL RIOTING IN BIG SPANISH STRIKE

MADRID, June 5.—Fatal rioting has followed the calling of a general strike in the central Spanish coal fields. Hundreds of soldiers were dispatched today from Leon and Oviedo to quell the disorder. At Aller, one rioter was killed and another mortally wounded, while several members of the civil guard were hurt. At several points idle miners have joined forces with the striking railway workers.

RHODODENDRON SHOW TO OPEN JUNE 8

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society's annual exhibition of rhododendrons, azaleas and irises will be held at Horticultural Hall, Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9. There will also be exhibits of early peonies and of other seasonable hardy flowers and early vegetables. The date of the peony, rose and strawberry exhibition has been fixed for Saturday and Sunday, June 22 and 23.

GUESTS FLEE AT NANTASKET FIRE

Ten thousand dollars damage resulted and guests were forced to flee, when fire, starting in the cellar, swept through the new Richards Hotel, situated on the boulevard at Nantasket Beach, adjoining Paragon Park.

Because of the early season there were few guests at the hotel, and these, with the employes, got out in safety.

GENERAL BOOTH IS FAST GOING BLIND

Time Yet to be a Princess Contest a Big Opportunity

New List of Candidates to Appear Sunday.

MISS ETHEL ROSE, REVERE CANDIDATE

BY THE PRINCESS EDITOR.

Girls, the Princess Contest is the opportunity of a lifetime!

The chance to own the raiment of a Princess, to make your own selection of it, to have it yours absolutely nothing—is it worth while? Well, according to our estimate of what is "worth while," it is. The outfit of a Princess is our notion of something "worth while," and that is the reward for the girl who gets the greatest number of votes.

A vacation trip to Bermuda, accompanied by a friend, with all expenses paid, including first-class accommodations on one of the fine ocean steamers and a stay at one of the best hotels on the island—is that also worth going after? That's the second prize, also the third.

Delightful sea trips to Baltimore, New York or Portland are other prizes.

It Isn't Too Late.

Is it too late to start? Positively NO—but we should not recommend that you spend much more time in reflection.

It is easy to get in with the leaders if you start NOW and go after the vote coupons as if you really meant it and wanted to win.

The second list of candidates' standing, with their vote totals, will appear in next Sunday's AMERICAN. Only coupons received up to next Friday, June 6, at 11 a. m. will be counted for this list. It is important, therefore, that every available vote be turned in at the Contest Department before that hour on that day.

Votes must be tied together in lots of 100 and then enclosed in one outside wrapper with the name and address of the contestant and the number of votes enclosed, plainly marked or stamped on the outside wrapper. Follow the directions carefully —it is important. It is NOT necessary to stamp EACH coupon. Just stamp the top three or four in each lot of 100—that will be sufficient.

Another full page of candidates' photographs will appear next Sunday. A word to the wise—the Contest Editor can't print your picture if you don't send it to him.

"Faint heart ne'er won" a Princess outfit or a delightful vacation trip. If YOUR name was not at the top of last Sunday's list, do not think that you cannot catch up with the leaders or pass them. Votes will put you up on the list, and votes may be obtained "for the asking."

Any Girl's Race.

The contest will end July 6—only four weeks from next Saturday—and it's any girl's race.

Have YOU given a "coupon party" yet? Have YOU sent out postals to all of your friends asking them to save the vote-coupons for you?

Delays are dangerous, girls! If you are backward in asking for votes, remember some other girl candidate isn't!

Three big things to remember:

Vote standing next Sunday.

A page of photographs next Sunday.

The big five-vote coupon next Sunday.

Miss Ethel Rose of No. 360 Beach street, Revere, exponent of the benefits derived from dancing, is a Revere candidate who is on "the firing line."

With her father for campaign manager her vote-getting campaign is certain to receive proper attention.

GOMPERS DENIES "BRIBE" MONEY

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, denied the truth of Detective Burr Franklin's testimony in the Darrow trial at Los Angeles that the money alleged to have been used to bribery in the McNamara case came from him. He said:

"That is an absolute falsehood made from whole cloth. I do not know Franklin, and I have never had any dealings with him. I did not send any money to him or to anybody. I do not handle any money. There is nothing to this and it is absurd on the face of it. I have documentary proof which disputes his story. I do not care to give the correspondence out at this time."

The name of Mr. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was brought into the record several times Franklin testified that Detective Burns told him the money for the alleged bribery of Lockwood came direct from Mr. Gompers.

The conversation in which Gompers' name was mentioned was incidental to a newspaper account purporting to show that the $4,000 used in the Lockwood case had been marked the San Quentin and Folsom prisons.

"I told Dillon at the time I couldn't continued the witness, "I was thinking so closely about that myself."

MRS. SANGSTER, AUTHOR, DEAD

NEWARK, N. J., June 5.—Margaret Elizabeth Sangster, well known for half a century as poet and author, is dead at her home in Maplewood. She was seventy-four years old.

Among her best known writing are "Poems of Home," "Motherhood," "Home Fables and Heart Flowers," "To the Kind Home," "Easter Bells," "Winsome Winnie," "Little Knights and Ladies," "Janet Ward," "Eleanor Lee," "Little Love," "When Angels Come to Me," "Good Manners for All Occasions," "In the Kingdom of Home," "The Story Bible," "Fairest Girlhood," "The Queenly Mother in the Realm of Home," "The Joy of Life" and "From My Youth Up."

CODMAN GETS MELLEN SLAP

President Charles S. Mellen of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and the Boston & Maine, replied today in very caustic terms to E. C. Codman's recent criticism of the handling of the Boston & Maine. Mr. Codman several days ago took Mr. Mellen and his New Haven directors severely to task, and today President Mellen "came back." He said:

It would be a mercy to the gentleman to let him alone. Many had forgotten his handling of the Fitchburg Railroad, now something over ten years ago, and how his activity in shooting the part of a critic may lead some to remember how sad was his failure to meet expectations, and how glad were his directors, stockholders, and the public, when he was diverted to the handling of dead men's affairs who had no power to kick.

BEGIN TELEPHONE PENSIONS JULY 1ST

Pensions will go into effect in the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company the first of July. They will range from a minimum of $25 to $100 a month.

After twenty years of service an employe of the company may be pensioned for disability at sixty, and may retire upon a pension at his own volition at sixty-five. At seventy, retirement is compulsory unless the board of directors decides to make an exception.

PUT OFF GENERAL LAWRENCE STRIKE

LAWRENCE, June 5.—The general strike threatened in the Washington Mills did not take place today. About 500 members of the I. W. W. walked out because the mills insisted on hiring persons not members of the union. The mills have done nothing to placate the strikers, and the general strike was threatened for today. I. W. W. leaders said they had deferred action.

$150 in Gold for a Name!

You May Win It

We intend to put on the market a first-class bread flour. It is made in Minnesota from finest selected wheat and is as nearly perfect as the best modern milling machinery and scientific methods can produce.

We want an appropriate name for this flour and we are asking our friends to furnish the name. By "our friends" we mean the people who are using Old Grist Mill Health Foods. Each user of these Foods may send any number of names—and with each name may be sent the front of an Old Grist Mill package, containing the picture of the old grist mill.

OLD GRIST MILL HEALTH FOODS

Consist of the following:

Old Grist Mill Wheat Coffee
If genuine coffee disagrees with you —why not drink the Old Grist Mill. It's flavor is delicious—Economical to use—200 cups to pound—Adults and children can drink with pleasure without injury. Not like other substitutes. Try it.

Old Grist Mill Rye Flakes
A health breakfast food. A gentle laxative, added to the menu it will bring health.

Old Grist Mill Rolled Wheat
Not heating to blood like oatmeal —easily digested. A splendid summer food.

Old Grist Mill Health Flour
Same flavor as old-fashioned, country-ground entire wheat flour.

The flour to be named is a fancy, patent white flour, particularly suited to the making of bread, although it is excellent for biscuits, buns, rolls, cakes and other purposes for which a bread flour can be used. It is a flour of especial fineness and whiteness, and it will be the best bread flour on the market.

Send in Your Choice of a Name at Once

Write your own name and address at the top of a sheet of paper—your choice of a name for the flour in the middle—and your grocer's name and address at the bottom. Don't put anything else on the page. All names submitted will be carefully considered, and the award will be made as soon as possible after the contest closes on June 25th. The name of the successful contestant and the same chosen will be published in these columns.

DISAPPOINTED BY WEIL PLEA

That the postoffice authorities were very much "disappointed in the outcome of the case of Victor M. Weil, who was found guilty by the United States District Court, before Judge Putnam, of using the mails in a scheme to defraud and sentenced to pay a $3,000 fine, was admitted today by Chief Postoffice Inspector Lawrence Leathers.

Weil was a stock promoter. He was charged with using the mails to promote fraudulent mining schemes. His trial had been pending more than two years, before Judge Putnam got to it. Weil and his associates, when the defendant's plea suddenly changed from not guilty to guilty, made a proffer that the United States Attorney make no statement before the court as to the facts in the case of the three months' imprisonment and $1,000 fine imposed.

"There is very little that I can say without the possibility of its being construed as criticism of the court, and that we are very much disappointed in the outcome of the case," said Leathers. "For years on the part of the postoffice department we have been trying to get Weil, and when we finally succeeded in getting him before the United States District Court we felt sure of a conviction. There was post-prosecution of the case, and the court, in fact, practically directed the jury to find a verdict of guilty. We presented the most important part of our evidence.

"How did it happen that the District Attorney's office was not consulted in the final disposition of the case?

"I don't know the answer. At 1 o'clock in the forenoon I was informed by Mr. Garvin, Mr. Hall and Mr. Foster, Weil's U. S. District Attorney Frosch was called in."

RILEY'S COLUMN

BASEBALL "fans" are the busiest letter writers in the world. Whenever they have a grievance they do not hesitate to tell all about it. At the game, they do not yet get it off their chests sufficiently excited they write to somebody. They have been writing to John M. Ward and John G. Kling, telling them how to get the Pilgrims out of last place. If their advice was good, both the Johns would make it worth while foo them.

YOU would imagine from this that baseball "fans" were "bugs." They're not. What they write is usually more important and more interesting than the other mail. They know what is needed in baseball as well as the magnate and the sporting writer do. All of which introduces the bunch of letters John M. Ward has received criticising him for not acquiring Pitcher Ray Keating of the Lawrence team, upon whom the New York Yankees have an option. The Yankees paid $2,500 for the option, and if they take it up will have Keating at the close of the New England season, paying $7,500 for the lad's release.

JOHN M. WARD said today that he had tried to get Keating himself and had failed, simply because Scout Billy Hamilton did not think the lad was worth so much money.

"HAMILTON had instructions to get anybody he thought right, and no limit was ever placed on the amount to be paid," said Ward today. "He heard about Keating and watched the lad. The pitcher is naturally a good one. He has done some good work, but has had little experience, of course. Hamilton told me about him, and we told him to ticket any offer for Keating that he thought was justified. Hamilton offered $5,000, but wired to us that the offer was turned down, because the Lawrence people had a $4,000 proposition.

"WE did not limit Hamilton in his offer. If Keating was worth $4,000 we would be paid that—or more—happily. But Hamilton did not think he was worth more than $3,000, and refused to advise us to pay a larger sum. We relied on his advice. Now, Keating may be worth more, or he may not. If he is Hamilton's idea of his future value may be wrong; otherwise Hamilton was right.

"MOST of the men who can be had are held for future delivery. The big league went over the minor leagues with a fine tooth comb last year and took all they had that was of any use in the majors. All there are left are the second crop. It is easy to judge what this crop will produce. We're after players, and we will take a chance on anybody that shows signs of making good in big league company—that will help us in the race."

* * *

WARD thinks that Bridwell's long layoff has kept the team several positions—at least three, to speak definitely—lower than it ought to be. He bases his opinion on the way several games have been lost while he was playing at second. Bridwell's decline has been the short field. It has been played by Sprat, Ingerton and Devlin. None of them has made good.

* * *

THE weakness there hurts the second and first basemen and the pitchers. Bill Sweeney has a hard enough job to cover most of the space between first and second bases without having to worry over what happens on the part side of second base, and he cannot play his position up to the standard of which he is capable without a shortstop who can play base ball with him. Ben Houser cannot reach the shortstops of the short-stop—in fact a task to hold down his own job. The pitchers very often use the short field, because they cannot have sufficient confidence that they will be protected in fielding. When balls are hit into that territory and runs are scored which could have been prevented by proper fielding, games are lost and the pitchers lose their salaries.

"HUB" Perdue is a victim of this. The loss of recent games is not a sign that "Hub" has fallen off in his work. Several times proper play in short field would have pulled him out of holes, and he would have won games that the Perdue is still one of the best in the National League.

* * *

BUFF Bridwell expects to be back in the game July 1 or thereabouts, after which John M. Ward will cease to worry about short field.

Baseball Notes

The only satisfaction the Wardmen got out of the Chicago series was that the three games were all hard fought. The Cubs won, 7 to 5, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1.

* * *

Mike Mowrey doesn't get all the credit he deserves as a third baseman. If he isn't in the charmed circle of the crack infields he isn't so far enough outside that you could notice it.

* * *

"It's always the case," says Kid Foster of the Nationals. "I can make a perfect throw on a hard chance with a fast man going down, but when I have an easy chance I lose control. The way to remedy that is to consider all chances hard."

* * *

Umpire Eason wears toe guards when officiating behind the plate. He found out that foul tips on the feet also stung.

* * *

Some of the National League managers do not fancy McGraw's policy of putting in substitute players when the Giants have a game clinched. They say that it isn't fair to show up the weaker teams in this manner. McGraw simply laughs when he hears these wails and says he will do as he pleases.

* * *

In the event that George Stovall and his understudy, Joe Kutina, are put out of commission at the same time, Manager Wallace, of the local Browns, could do worse than pick George Baumgardner to play the first cushion.

Before he started pitching "Baum" was a first sacker. He made a hit at the job, both as a fielder and a hitter, until he was bodily spiked. Then he had to lay off, but when the wound mended he started pitching. He proved such a speed demon that he wasn't permitted to return to his old job on the baseline corner.

* * *

"The big lead assumed by the Giants has lessened the public interest in the National League race," said Frank Bancroft, business manager of the Reds in New York. "But, of course, that cannot be helped and the rest of us must take the bitter with the sweet. The Reds, however, expect to check McGraw's men in the coming series at the Polo Grounds."

* * *

"Yes, and we will finish close behind the Giants next Fall," interposed Hess O'Day. "Outside of the pitching department we have a better ball team than the Giants right now. But our pitchers haven't lived up to expectations, although they may strike a faster gait later on."

* * *

Some speed-mad bug in Indianapolis has figured out that Bob Burman in his fastest automobile could circle the bases twice and reach first base on the Polo Grounds while Ty Cobb was going down to first base from the plate. A that, the path would have to be banked some.

HARVARD LOSES STAR TWIRLER

Sam Felton, Harvard's star twirler, will be off the Crimson team for the remainder of the season.

The big fellow has once more come into difficulties with the college office and the Crimson nine will lose him at the most critical stage of the season.

It will now be up to Bartloff to stand the brunt of the box work, and, with Beeres, the star catcher out of the game for at least a week more, the chances of the Cambridge team against the crack Williams team this afternoon seem pretty slim.

Just what will happen against the Yale leaguers in the big series, which is but a little over a week off, is now a puzzle to the Harvard undergraduates. The problem will be a hard one for Coach Sexton to solve.

Close Races Marked Schoolboy Regatta

Keen competition marked the preliminary races of the schoolboy crews on the Charles River Basin yesterday afternoon Cambridge Latin, Rindge, Boston Latin and Brookline High qualified for the finals to be raced tomorrow afternoon in the races for first crews.

The fastest time made the best time and was fresh at the finish, so much so that the crew turned around and raced the mile back to the boathouse with a fast stroke.

In the races for second crews, Rindge, Cambridge Latin, Brookline High and Roxbury Memorial raced for the finals. It should be a close one between them, none being far enough behind in the preliminaries to be counted out of a chance to win the championship.

The times in the second crews races were not fast, even with a small gale blowing, which aided the earsmen.

WOULD PROTECT WITH A SCREEN

Jake Daubert comes to bat with a new idea.

It is that the clubs put a wire screen around the stands a foot or two from the concrete, so that a man running for a foot and absorbed in that occupation will not jump into a solid wall, to the danger of his knees, abdomen and others parts of his body.

Ball players are advocating this protected innovation as a result of the injury to Hans Lobert, who broke his kneecap running after a ball. Bumping into a screen at full speed would not be the height of ecstasy, but Daubert says it would be better than running yourself against a stone wall, and the reasoning seems to be logical.

Dorando Flunks Out of Race with Hayes

ROME, June 5.—Johnny Hayes, the plucky little American who won the Olympic Marathon race at Shepherd's Bush, London, for the American team in 1908, has left Rome, disgusted with the way Dorando Pietri, the Italian champion, has treated him. Dorando, it will be remembered, was the runner who collapsed in the 1908 classic with the goal in sight, and was disqualified because he had Calcante carried him across the tape line. He was to have met Hayes on a match race here, but evidently has flunked.

P. Kilgan, the race promoter of Sioux City, who came over here with Hayes, had Dorando's promise of a race. The Italian now declares that he has changed his mind because he intends to be married soon. It is said by those who claim to know that Pietri is out of condition and is fearful of deciding the issue.

While in Rome, Hayes had great difficulty in securing training quarters. The police refused to let him run in the Villa Borghese because of the crowds he attracted, with resultant inconvenience to artists. After difficulty he secured accommodations near the Coliseum.

O'TOOLE JOINS THE G. B. LEAGUE

Dr. Leslie D. Priest, president of the Dorchester Club in the Greater Boston League, today signed Frank O'Toole of South Framingham, a clever young pitcher. Frank is a brother of the famous $22,500 Marty O'Toole, now with Pittsburg, and of the well-known though less famous Mike O'Toole, for a time this season with St. Paul of the American Association, which team sold Marty to the Pirates. Frank O'Toole is but nineteen years old. Several seasons he pitched for the Dennison team of South Framingham and also pitched some fine ball last season in the Mill League. Frank reports to Manager Preffer today and may get his first chance against Lynn this afternoon.

Another big league baseball name appeared on the Greater Boston League scoreboard yesterday for the first time, when Fred Beebe played third for Everett-Chelsea. Fred is the famous Johnny Evers' kid brother, when the Chelsea outfit gets a whole lot like the Cub second baseman. The last time Beebe with the Chelsea put daily alongside his noted Cub brother when the Chelsea outfit hit Boston. Young Fred heard of the Greater Boston League, found out that Archie Marshall of Troy, N. Y.—Evers' home town—was managing the Everett-Chelsea team and the rest is easy to imagine. Young Evers was with the New York State League for a time.

GREATER BOSTON LEAGUE.

BRESNAHAN IS NOW IN FULL CONTROL

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 5.—J. C. Jones of St. Louis, lawyer, was elected president of the St. Louis National League baseball club yesterday, succeeding Stanley Stephenson.

It was announced that Roger Bresnahan, manager, will have absolute control of the team on the field and off.

Chief Myers Uses Heaviest Bat

Harry Lord Swings the Lightest

Perhaps you have noticed the big war club which Chief Meyers of the Giants swings when he goes to the plate on the South End grounds. If you have, you have seen the largest and heaviest bat in the major leagues.

Now Meyers' bat weighs sixty ounces. He wants the biggest, heaviest bat that he can obtain. And should Heine Zimmerman, the slugger on the Cubs, place his bat alongside that of the Giant catcher it would look small, indeed. Because Zimmerman wields a bat which weighs about forty ounces, or only two-thirds as heavy as that of the chief.

Ball players frequently pair off in selecting their bats. Fred Clarke and Tyrus Cobb use the same sort of a war club, or rather they did until Clarke became a batting manager. Harry Davis of the Naps and Eddie Collins also wield a stick that is of the same shape and weight. Joe Jackson of the Naps and James Callahan, manager of the Sox, must have the same shaped war club, but Callahan wants his a bit heavier. He has what they call "more drive" in his. Jackson's weighs about forty ounces, while that of Callahan will run about three ounces heavier.

Hans Wagner has a peculiar theory. Wagner wants a great big bat. He doesn't care whether it is heavy or not, and he doesn't care whether it is made of fine wood. What he wants is size.

"I don't care whether the bat lasts a long time or not," said Hans. "If I can get a nice hit or two out of the bat and it breaks, all well and good. I'll get a lot of bats."

While accounts for the fact that when it comes to breaking war clubs Wagner is the chief to himself.

When it comes to the other end of the bat, the handle, Ty and Hans are alike. Each wants a long handle. Ty used to use a club which looked more like a baseball bat when placed alongside the club used by Chief Myers. Lord has an idea that one can get a lot more base hits when one is provided a curve ball pitcher if he will swing a short and light bat, and his club seldom runs over thirty-seven ounces in weight.

Schulte has one of the freak bats of the game. It's of average weight—about forty ounces. But the weight is all in the end, the slugging end. The handle is the smallest made for any batter in the major leagues, and many of the players refer to his war club as a switch. But many will testify that when Schulte does put the heavy end of the club against a ball the sphere must travel.

The Chicago "murtle sons," Chance and Bodie, also swing the same kind of a club. They have "lots of wood" in their bats and they are heavy, running forty-four and forty-five ounces.

Rucker isn't the only star pitcher who has failed to come up to expectations so far. Chalmers of the Philadelphia Nationals hasn't been able to work in a single game because of a torn ligament in his shoulder. Scott of the White Sox still remains on the shelf and Callahan doesn't know when he will be able to resume carving 'em over. Caldwell of the Highlanders won his first game of the year on Monday, while Keefe of the Reds still remains in the sunshine cases. Miner Brown of the Cubs isn't in form yet, while Reisler and Coombs of the Athletics are just getting into winning shape.

It is the custom among baseball magnates to refrain from wagering anything more than a new hat on the result of their season's baseball campaign. Some hasty owner will forget himself and bet Mrs. Britton one. He will realize, when he gets the bill, the disadvantages of having lady magnates in the national game.

GRIMSON CREW HARD AT WORK

HARVARD TRAINING QUARTERS, Red Top, Ct., June 5.—The Harvard varsity crew was sent over the full four-mile course by Coach Wray, yesterday, and the men rowed in fine form, much improvement being noticed since the Cornell race.

The water was rough at the start, and the average stroke was 26, although at the last mile it was increased to 36 and 38.

The crew paddled back to quarters, and Coach Wray watched the freshmen work for three miles.

Withington replaced Capt. Trumbell at No. 5 in the freshman boat for the afternoon. The four-oared crews had only light practice.

Yale Varsity Eight Has Three-Mile Spin

GALES FERRY, Ct., June 5.—All the Yale crews were on the water for practice yesterday. The water was rough and no attempt was made for speed.

Coach Bob Cook followed the varsity eight for three miles in the afternoon, and Coach Rogers devoted his attention to the second varsity eight in a three-mile row down the river.

Visitors at quarters were Fred Stevenson, captain of the record-breaking '88 crew, and E. S. Harkness, '97.

GARDNER TO BOX EDDIE McGOORTY

Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, and Eddie McGoorty of Oshosh, Wis., have been matched and will meet in a twelve round bout to a decision at the next meeting of the Pilgrim A. A., which will be held one week from tonight. McGoorty is one of the newest pugilistic "stars" to appear in the battle world and his victories have been notable. His most recent wins have been over Hugo Kelly and Jack Dillon.

This is a bout to determine who is the best middleweight in the world. Matchmaker Johnny Mooney intends to give Leo Houck, Frank Klaus, Jack Dillon, Mike Aloha and any of the other real contenders a chance to win his way to the top of the class. He will match winners against winners and those standing before the first of the New Year will try to produce the new champion.

Athletes in Shape for Tryouts Records in Danger at Stadium

By JACK CONWAY.

EVERYTHING is now in readiness for the Olympic tryouts which will be held at the Harvard Stadium on next Saturday afternoon. The champion athletes of the East and the Middle West who will battle for the premier laurels in the various events have completed their training, and from present indications it looks as though Saturday's meet would be the greatest ever held in the East.

Close followers of track sports believe that one or more world's records will go by the board before the smoke of battle blows over.

In the different athletic meets which have been held throughout the country this Spring, there have been many wonderful performances. Every athlete in the land is eager to distinguish himself and in this way be selected to represent old Glory at Stockholm, Sweden, this Summer. The "stars" of the big athletic clubs and colleges are now in the pink of condition and with the best track and field men in the East entered in the Stadium tryouts, the competition is sure to be keen, regardless of this, Taber's performance was a great one. He covered the 10-mile run in 4m. 20.5-5., which is traveling some.

AN interesting struggle is expected in the 5,000 metre race. Just now it looks as though George Bonhag, Irish-American A. C.; Louis Scott, South Paterson A. C.; Tel Berna, Cornell, and Paul Withington of Harvard will be the favorites.

Bonhag is a veteran and has competed at Athens and London. He is a magnificent performer. He has run a number of times in this city and has a host of well wishers.

Scott is Bonhag's greatest rival. This youthful distant "star" has been doing sensational work during the past year. He is almost unbeatable in races from three to twelve miles. He has already defeated Bonhag and believes that he will prove a dark horse for the veteran New Yorker at the Stadium.

Berna and Withington are sure to cause Bonhag and Scott a lot of trouble. Withington won the two-mile race at the intercollegiate championships and incidentally established a new record for the distance.

Berna, on the other hand, is the former Intercollegiate two-mile champion. He started in the one-mile race, and the best that he could get was fourth place. He then entered the two-mile event, but was left at the post and forced to run from the end of the sixth lap. Berna sends word from Rhaca that he is in grand condition.

THE 1,500 metre race should be one of the most thrilling contests ever staged on an eastern track. Abel Kivlat, the fleet-footed, quick thinking Irish-American middle distance crack; Oscar Hedlund, the B. A. A.'s rugged performer, Taber, Brown's whirlwind, and the mighty John Paul Jones of Cornell, will probably start. There is a possibility that Jones will not compete, but even if the Ithacan marvel doesn't grace the Stadium with his presence, the race should nevertheless be a great one.

Kivlat and Hedlund have met a number of times and have always put up a great battle. Taber of Brown is likely to be left off these veterans to the limit. Taber proved his worth when he raced a good heat with Jones at the Intercollegiate games last Saturday.

It is true that Jones was saving himself for the half mile, and also that he was trying to "pull" Borna into second place, but regardless of this, Taber's performance was a great one. He covered the 10-mile run in 4m. 20.5-5., which is traveling some.

THE New York track isn't running quite as well as he was when he captured the 800 and 1,500-metre races at the London Olympic games. But, regardless of sensational work during the past year. He is almost unbeatable in races from three to twelve miles. He has already defeated Bonhag and believes that he will prove a dark horse for the veteran New Yorker at the Stadium.

Berna and Withington are sure to cause Bonhag and Scott a lot of trouble. Withington won the two-mile race at the intercollegiate championships and incidentally established a new record for the distance.

Berna, on the other hand, is the former Intercollegiate two-mile champion. He started in the one-mile race, and the best that he could get was fourth place. He then entered the two-mile event, but was left at the post and forced to run from the end of the sixth lap. Berna sends word from Rhaca that he is in grand condition.

Other good runners entered are E. R. Parsons, Irish-American; A. C. and H. Baker, New York A. C.

Good Races Arranged at Wakefield-Reading

A set of seven races have been arranged for the matinee on Saturday at the Wakefield-Reading track and all should be closely contested. The horses have been about evenly matched and some of the greatest racing of the season is anticipated.

Class B will bring together Ginger B., Beverdge and Baraldo, and this race is attracting a lot of attention. On May 30 Beverdge defeated Ginger B and Baraldo in the fast time of 1:09⅘ and 1:10, and it is expected under better conditions these times will be bettered.

CLASS A TROT—Dehesia, b. m., T. F. Brady; Cornell Boy, b. g., H. Nichols.

CLASS B TROT—Ginger B., b. m., W. P. Parsons; Beverdge, g. s., Simpson; Baraldo, Lady Wilkinson.

CLASS C TROT—Lozier, b. g., C. W. Wells; Cornell Boy, b. g., W. Nicholls.

CLASS D TROT—Mary Robbins, b. m., H. P. Hubbard; Miss Olive Bonner, b. m., W. A. Brackett.

CLASS E PACE—Wildlock, b. g., C. J. Bolton; Belle Parks, b. m., G. A. Cowdry; Gracie C., br. m., W. Farnum.

CLASS F MIXED—The Moose, b. g., T. F. Brady; Lady Pitch, b. m., L. Nichols; Dandy Direct, N. W. Guillow; Twin Smatters, g. g., F. W. Wymouth.

CLASS G TROT—Goldmont, ch. h., G. S. McDonald; Lady Bird, ch. g., W. F. Turner.

Six E. H. S. Athletes To Be Disciplined

Trouble over the trip of six English High track athletes to the South Framingham Agricultural Fair last Saturday promises to furnish exciting gossip for the school fans before the matter is threshed out.

It is said on good authority that the six boys—Irving T. Howe, Bernard Macey, Chester Higgins, Walter Lane, Charles Morgan and Lester Williams—who went to Framingham and competed there instead of in the Boston High School meet at Wood Island Park Saturday, are to be severely disciplined.

The trouble was brought about because the boys represented themselves as the English High track team, which was directly against the orders given them. By thus competing the schools will be given the credit of winning the meet, for the six boys won points greater than the total turned in by any other school.

At a meeting yesterday letters were awarded to seven boys who competed at Wood Island Park last Saturday, because of their sticking by the coach and school. Only one of these boys was fortunate enough to score a point for the school. This was Dan Mahoney, who won third place in the half-mile run. The boys awarded letters were: H. J. Cahill, H. O. Clarke, A. M. Kelley, R. T. Montgomery, J. J. Connors and Pettigrew.

Notes of the Links

Don't forget to send in your entries for the State amateur golf championship before Thursday of this week. They must reach H. H. Wilder, the secretary of the State through each player's home club secretary. The entrance fee of $2.00 should accompany each entry.

Tom Donovan of the Woodland Golf Club had to pay the usual penalty for making a hole in one last week on the 13th hole at his home club. The pale ones were on the green when he drove saw the ball come bumping down into this natural pinch-bowl, hit the flag hard and then drop into the cup. The penalty for such chance-peruse golf is to "Buy" when the club house is reach.

J. G. Anderson of Brae-Burn, the present amateur champion of the Bay State, sails this week for a couple of months' trip abroad. He will take in the Olympic games at Sweden in addition to playing golf at the famous golf courses in Great Britain and France, when if is possible for him to do so.

MANY SCHOOL BATTLES TODAY

Games of importance are on the school schedule today and some great battles are anticipated. Games in several leagues will be played and as the season is drawing to a close, all will be bitterly fought as each aspires a bit in the final standing.

Somerville High plays Everett High this afternoon at Somerville in a Suburban League game, and the Red and Blue team will work their hardest to pull Everett down a game. Everett now has a clear lead in the league, but it cannot afford to lose at this stage of the game. Medford is close on Everett's heels.

Somerville has been an easy opponent for Everett in the two games played to date and Coach Cleo O'Donnell does not expect any trouble today.

Walter Whittaker and Jack Murray will be the opposing pitchers and the games should at least be close as both twirlers are performing in fine style. Whittaker is a much better pitcher than Murray, but the latter gets better support at the bat and that is what wins.

A hard game is on the schedule in the city today when the teams of Boston Latin and Boston College High clash. The game should be close as both teams are at present a bit above the .500 mark. Billy Rodden will pace the Warren avenue boys and Gill will twirl for the Preps and a great pitchers' battle is on hand. Billy Rodden has been coaxing along at a great rate in his last few games and should hold the Boston College boys. Gill, although he has come up fairly well this season, has been pitching fine ball this season.

Medford High will have an easy opponent when Medford High, Mass., is met probably do the twirling and he will go out to pitch another one of those no-hit games. Davidson is developing some great work on the mound this season, and although he is the second string twirler, he has been performing with the best of them.

Malden plays Lawrence High this afternoon and Melrose plays Hyde Park at Melrose, and both games should result in victories for the Suburban Leaguers. Malden is playing a fast game at present and should win by a comfortable score.

Coach Harry Pray of Natick High will bring his boys down to Waltham and try to take a fall out of the Waltham team. Natick has been playing a strong game this season, although they have not piled up the record that Waltham has, the team will put up a hard battle.

PICK COAST MEN FOR OLYMPICS

NEW YORK, June 5.—That the Pacific Coast will be well represented at the Olympic games was made known yesterday when the members of the Olympic Selection Committee requested eleven men from the coast to report here next week. They are Ralph Rose, Horine, Courtney, Gerhart, McClure, Bellah, Rosenberg, A. Kelley, Allen, Hawkins and Pat Henderson. All of these men have displayed great speed or strength and are picked by Western experts as sure point getters.

Of those selected three are well-known to the Eastern experts. George Horine, the great jumper of Stanford University, is now in this city. He twice smashed Mike Sweeney's world record in California. Since coming East he has displayed good enough form to warrant the belief that his great jump in the West were no fakes.

Rose holds several shot put records. With this weight he is considered the best in the world. He was on the last Olympic team and won his event at London in easy fashion.

Edmundson is a middle distance runner in the National championships at Pittsburg last year he ran a remarkably fine race in the half mile until a few yards from the finish, where he tripped and fell. At the time he was in front of Melvin Sheppard, the winner.

As soon as the men report to the committee in this city they will be sent to Travers Island and Celtic Park where they will train until the National calls on June 14. The committee also decided that the Swimming try-outs will be held at Verona Park, Newark, next Tuesday. Swimmers from the city, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and several colleges will compete. Matt Halpin, manager of the team, said after the meeting that more than four hundred entries have been received for the try-outs at Cambridge, Saturday.

SPEEDWAY RECORD BY CHIEF WILKIE

Chief Wilkie, the "King of the Speedway," broke the record of pacers on the Charles River Speedway, Brighton, yesterday, covering the course in 1:05⅘. The previous record was 1:07.

This was but one of the many classes on the card of the weekly matinee of the Metropolitan Driving Club that proved very interesting.

MATT WELLS TO BOX IN NEW YORK TONIGHT

NEW YORK, June 5.—Matt Wells, lightweight champion of England, will get his action here tonight for the first time since he was defeated at Madison Square Garden by Packy McFarland of Chicago. Wells will box ten rounds with Young Reagan, an East Side product, who has been training under Freddy Welsh, from whom Wells won his British title.

CROSS IS READY FOR AD WOLGAST

NEW YORK, June 5.—Leach Cross' six rounds over K. O. Brown in the star den Monday night will lead to several important matches, that is, if Cross is ready for all comers and will agree to keep on fighting through the Summer months. Cross says he is the logical opponent for Champion Ad Wolgast and he has asked Manager Gibson of the Garden A. C. to arrange such a match. But there will be nothing doing if Wolgast continues to be unreasonable in his demands. In the event Cross will be formally challenged by Matt Wells of England. Willie Ritchie of San Francisco and Jack Britton of Chicago.

Having decisively whipped Brown and Young Murphy, Cross looms up formidably and has redoubled his value as a drawing card. But Wells, who trimmed Cross here last year in rather handy fashion, says he and not Cross is entitled to first crack at Wolgast, also that he is willing to fight Cross some time this month for the right to get a match with the champion.

Ritchie, who can make 133 pounds at 4 o'clock, is hungry for a scrap with Leacher, who has proved beyond peradventure that he wasn't a bit weakened. Ritchie was rated as the best Cross has met, but things are different now. As for Britton, it may be said that when he whipped Johnny Murto at a local club last year he gave a splendid exhibition of skill. Prior to that affair Britton bested an eight-round draw with Packey McFarland at Memphis. He has been looked upon with favor on the coast since last Fall and is in tiptop condition.

The Cross-Brown affair drew about $7,000. Nearly 4,000 persons passed through the gates, yet the attendance should have been greater, no doubt. The weather had much to do with it. The fact that Brown several weeks ago was defeated by Young Jack Dillon in Philadelphia probably was a drawback, also the fact that Cross recently met Packy Sullivan at a local club for a few hundred dollars. The match was arranged before Billy Gibson took hold of the Garden A. C. In future Gibson will confine star bouts to fighters of championship calibre, leaving the second raters to take part in the Garden's popular priced shows.

Brown's poor showing was due to several causes. He has had a great style of milling and possesses little or no judgment of distance. He punched his foe particularly for a right handed hitter but he has been worked so frequently that he has gone a trifle stale. If it hadn't been for his wonderful strength and courage Cross would have knocked him out cold in the seventh round.

JOHNNY GALLANT STOPS JACK O'NEIL

WESTFIELD, June 5.—Johnny Gallant of Chelsea beat Philadelphia Jack O'Neil in the fifth of a ten-round go at the Westfield Athletic Club last night. In the preliminary Young Labaie of Northampton defeated Kid Cushing of Springfield in a four-round bout.

"Can't beat this for pipe ammunition!"

MAYOR DRIVES IN HORSE RACE

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald will start the strongest card of races ever seen on the Franklin Field Speedway, Dorchester, Saturday—Dorchester Day—driving President A. M. Johnson's fast trotting gelding against Michael McDermott's easy and fast going Camello. This is a repetition of the same race as was driven over the course at the opening of the fairgrounds track a year ago, in which the Mayor won the first prize, a handsome cup. This year Camello is faster and will give His Honor the race of his life for the special silver trophy.

The card for the first seven pacing and trotting events will be made up of the fast horses from the Metropolitan Club against the fast steppers of the Dorchester Club, being an inter-club meet, for the championship of Greater Boston, as well as to pick the fastest horses of the Bay. The races will be for points as follows: 5, 3, 1; second 5, third 2, and fourth 1.

All the events are four-horse races for the Class A pacing event will be a hummer and the track record will be sore pressed as all four horses are keyed for the occasion. Chief Wilkie, W. M. McDonald's famous horse gelding, and Maxdell, B. W. Gore's fast goer of the Metropolis will be the attraction against Malcolm Bay, A. S. Gushee's track record holder; and the fast Charlie King, A. T. Wheeler's trotter.

The Class B event will see matched up the fastest pacers in the Bay. Major Wellington, Chauncey Sears' gelding, Big La Rohr, W. J. McDonald's stepper of the Mets, will know they have been in a race when they cross the tape with Nut Boy, P. O'Hearn's champion trotter, holder of this year's track trotting record and believed to be the fastest trotting horse on any of the New England speedways, and H. P. Gallup's comer, Earl King, who is getting faster every race.

Johnson Will Dispose Of All "White Hopes"

LAS VEGAS, N. M., June 5.—Jack Johnson is so sure of victory in his bout with Jim Flynn on July 4 that he has begun to plan for the nights he will have after the Independence Day battle.

After sparring twelve rounds with his partners, Johnson decided that it would be good fun to dispose of the crop of "white hopes."

After the Flynn battle he announced he would meet Langford every week-end and had disposed of them all. He followed the usual training program religiously.

Over in Jim Flynn's camp there are a lot of people who do not believe that Jack is going to have such an easy time. The champion is made up largely of Flynn's array of sparring partners. Most of these "pards" are laid up for repairs, and Flynn has been forced to use amateur sparring partners until they are able to don the gloves again.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S DAILY DOUBLE

The Making of a Pretty Girl

—The Face of Beauty, and Some Questions Answered—

Learn to make the most of your good looks.

Clothes and manners both change with the way a girl does her hair, and the way her complexion looks.

By MARGARET HUBBARD AYER.

BEFORE I go on with the making of our pretty girl I want to answer some of the many questions that have poured in from girls between fourteen and sixteen regarding their complexions.

I always feel deeply sympathetic with girls of that age, because it is a very trying time. One isn't quite a young lady yet, and one is not a child, and clothes and manners both change along with the manner in which one does one's hair, and the way one's complexion looks.

A girl of fifteen who had taken my last article very seriously to heart wants to know what in the world she will do.

"The girls at school are making fun of me," she writes, "because my face is shiny just like a mirror, and yet you say I must not use powder. All the other girls do, so what shall I do?"

Personally I would much rather see a girl with the greasy face that she try one or the other of these treatments. Of course, I take it for granted that you don't omit your daily bath, and that you wash your face carefully and thoroughly both night and morning. The investment of a face brush will repay you by clearing the pores of all impurities and making it much easier for you to work on your complexion.

The soap you use on your face need not be an expensive kind, but it must be pure. Many soaps can be used on the body or hands, but should not touch the face. If the soap stings it is too strong for the face, and one of the simplest tests is to taste it with the tongue. It is does not "bite" it can be used on the face of the most sensitive-skinned girl.

Scrub your face with the brush and soap, taking especial pains to scrub around the nostrils and chin and over the temples where blackheads are likely to appear. Rinse the face with several warm waters and then cold water and dry carefully and thoroughly. If you use a facebath, take good care to see that it is kept clean. Once you have used it wash it out in clear water with a little ammonia and hang it up in the window to dry.

Instead of Powder

Instead of using powder, if your nose is really very shiny, get your mother to give you about a teaspoonful of epsom salts; boil about four ounces of water and dissolve the salts in the water, bottle it, and mop a little of this liquid over your nose when you want to be sure that it is not going to look shiny. By adding a little more epsom salts you can make a simple and excellent bleach for neck and face.

Don't let your mother throw away any bits of cucumber, either the pulp or the peel, because cucumber juice is one of the best things for the complexion, and you can rub it on at night or during the day. It acts as a bleach and will correct the oily look.

On warm days when your face shines you may be able to beg a little bit of white wine vinegar—about a tablespoonful—and pour it into two cups of rain water. Wipe your face with this, and add a few drops of perfume to the water if you like sweet odors.

Now for the girl whose skin is blotchy, of course she assures me that there is not anything the matter with her little stomach, and, as I don't know my correspondents personally, I cannot deny that they are right. But usually, dear Sweet Sixteen, your face is a pretty good indication of the condition of your blood, and if it is blotched just now, ask your mother if she won't mix you up a good, old-fashioned dose of sulphur and molasses. I think probably it would do you good, for I have seen more complexions clear up with the simplest of remedies than I care to remember.

Beauty depends greatly on the way you take care of your natural charms.

The Girl with the Red Nose

The girl with the little red nose is exceedingly indignant at me because I said it might be due to stricture of some kind, tight lacing, tight garters, etc. She also insists that she has not indigestion, so I shall advise her first of all to avoid all sudden changes in temperature, not to get overheated if she can avoid it, to cut tea and coffee out of her bill of fare, together with spicy foods and too much meat.

Sometimes, if the nose is very red, a warm foot bath will allay the discomfort, and the feature will return to its ordinary coloring. On the whole, however, the nose shows indigestion in eating and anaemia, which means a poor or weak condition of the blood, and a chronic case of cold you should be turned over to the family physician and cured, because it is an indication of some real trouble.

Sweet Sixteen complains quite bitterly of her lutters of the slips of her mouth.

Now, the mouth is shaped by character, by the thought and will behind the face, and the Italians say that our eyes are what God intended us to be, and our mouths show what we have made of ourselves.

At your age, with all of life before you, almost any kind of a mouth can be made into a feature which expresses character, strength and sweetness of disposition, and that, after all, is real beauty.

For the consolation of the girl with the big mouth, I want to tell her that it is a sign of a generous nature, and that both men and women are beginning to be rather critical of the small, pursed mouth, which is apt to say more bitter things than the bigger, if less pretty, lips.

If you don't like the shape of your lips and mouth, learn to remember with great care and distinctness. The preacher in the pulpit is a good example to follow, or if you know of a teacher who speaks almost too precisely, imitate that teacher. Careful enunciation is a good exercise for the lips. It strengthens all the muscles in the lips, and if you will practice it daily you will get the well-shaped lips which distinguish our best actresses and actors.

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

THE DANGER AGE FOR MAN

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

WITHOUT doubt every man in the world decided when he heard there was a Danger Age for women that his wife had reached it and took some pleasure in telling her so.

Lysander John Appleton proved to his own satisfaction that the Danger Age for women covers all the time between the ages of his wife and daughter and took an owl-like delight in telling them so.

Even a worm of the fair sex will turn, and Mrs. Appleton and Daysey Mayme turned simultaneously, with the discovery that ALL TIME is the Danger Age for man, and wrote their conclusions in gold and red, had them framed and hung in Lysander John's room.

Now, when he dresses, when he shaves, when he turns to look out for a better view of a pretty woman who is passing, when his eyes search wildly for help when he is working with his collar button—on every occasion incident to a man's stay in his room—he sees things said in red and gold on his wall that make him squirm, and cause him to leave the room three inches shorter than when he entered it.

Man's Danger Age

And these are the reasons:

"Every year of a male creature's life is the Danger Age, BECAUSE:

"The day he puts on trousers he also puts on an air of superiority to the sex that doesn't wear them, and this air of superiority clods him to his own imperfections. Neither he never gets over them.

"As a youth he is so proud of himself it is a wonder he doesn't shut himself up in a barn and charge the people two pins each to see him. This belief that he is worth a price of admission never leaves him.

"He falls in love with a girl because of her good looks, and claims after marriage that because she isn't a capable housewife he was deceived.

"He is as popular when a young man as the only dog in an orphan asylum, and makes the dangerous mistake of thinking that after he is married his popularity will continue.

"When a book agent tells him he is an important personage he is so pleased with the book agent's powers of discrimination that he will buy anything offered. And every debt of instalment he pays is only another proof of his conceit.

"When not given a chance to talk, he sulks, and when given a chance he soon tells his own weakness.

"He spends so much time talking about his ambition that he never has time to realize it, and if it ever occurs to him that it is really time he were amounting to something he reflects with great complacency that other men older have done less and that he isn't dead yet.

"His only hope lies in matrimony, for the reason that no one ever tells a bachelor when he is making a fool of himself.

"If he hasn't shown he is a great baby it is because he hasn't found the right woman to cry to.

"If he climbs to the top of a ladder without a woman's help, he loses his head when he gets there through looking down at one.

"If he has a woe, he can't distinguish between a sympathetic ear and a curious one, and thus accumulates more trouble.

His Crown Prepared

"Every time he takes home a steak for his family he thinks what a Good Man he is, and all through life he is of the secret opinion that he is keeping the custodian of gems Up Yonder overworked getting jewels in the crown preparing for him.

"During his married life he is pleased when a young girl looks at him pityingly, not knowing that she sees a stream with wrecks that began with a girl looking pityingly at a married man.

"If left a widower, his first reflection after his wife's funeral is that he is not so old; his second is that marriage is rightly a companionship of souls, indicating that he is getting his conscience ready to approve of a second wife, young enough to be his granddaughter.

"He has the highest opinion of the intelligence of those who laugh loudest at his jokes.

"All through life he recognizes only those commandments that forbid those things he does not desire, and forgets that the world has a different standard.

"In his overwhelming assurance, he believes the world says of him, 'He is a good man.' And so it does! It says, 'He is a good man, but——.' And he has to die to get that word 'but' cut off."

Science Notes

LAST Summer's weather was unusual throughout the world. While Europe and, the United States were abnormally warm, the greater part of South America was cold, and Africa was exceptionally cool. Winter. While the drought in this country and Europe was most severe, South America was treated to a drenching practically unprecedented in that part of the world. From the meteorological log books of a number of vessels it appears that the trade winds over the North Atlantic were exceptionally strong during the Summer of 1911. During the same period the meteorological station at Punta Arenas, at the southerly extremity of South America, noted the highest average wind velocities for fifteen years, September being the stormiest month on record.

Electric ovens for bread baking are beginning to make their appearance in some of the large cities of Europe, and the central electric stations are promoting their use. The Vienna electric plant is making arrangements with the bakers' syndicate to have electric ovens adopted widely throughout the city, and it offers to supply the current for this use at specially reduced rates. As the bakers' ovens run all night this provides an outlet for current during the hours when the load is normally low. There soon will be a trial given out in operation in order to test the method.

According to a consular report a new bicycle lamp has been introduced in Australia by means of which electricity is generated by the operation of the bicycle. A small wheel attached to the shaft of the dynamo rests on the front or rear wheel of the bicycle, making many revolutions for each one made by the larger wheel. When the lamp is not needed the little wheel can be set free from the bicycle wheel by a lever. A very powerful light is obtained at a speed of fifteen kilometers (9.32 miles) an hour, but sufficient light is obtained at even less speed.

Late Spring and Early Summer Hats

—Fetching Creations in Straws and Silks—

RUCHED SATIN AND MARABOUT PLUME

WHILE flower-decked hats for late Spring and Summer are becoming very popular, the straw or silk hat trimmed with velvet, silk or ribbon is holding its own over here.

Starting from the top on the right, picture No. 1 shows a tagal straw hat trimmed with a great natural plume; No. 2, a somewhat daring silk-trimmed hat for one possessing a piquant face. The crown is swathed in folded silk with a large silk wing. No. 3 is a hat for country wear. The soft brim falls very gracefully and the trimming encircles the crown.

FLOWERS, RIBBON AND SATIN

The bonnet style. The crown is finished with a great bow of satin, with flowers and pleated ribbon around the brim. Soft ends fall to the shoulder.

HAT WITH VELVET BOW

A very attractive hat suitable for late Spring wear. The large bow is composed of ribbon velvet and is placed endways across the crown.

Laying Up Trouble

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MARY ANNE writes:

"I am a young woman of twenty and am in love with a young man of twenty-two. He has been calling on me twice a week for a year, and I am positive he loves me, but he is terribly bashful and has never said anything about his love for me.

"Do you think it would be unladylike if I took advantage of Leap Year and proposed to him?"

I am surprised that a girl with such a nice, old-fashioned name should ask such a foolishly modern question.

A girl named Mary Anne, by every right of tradition and custom, should be content to let romance travel its sweet, old-fashioned course. She should know that a love that is forced, like a flower that is put through the hothouse process, fierce, devouring monster and himself as her innocent and helpless victim.

If there are any children to such a union the story that mother proposed will not dignify mother. Neither will it make a hero of father.

Mary Anne can't upset old-fashioned customs and make her happiness secure on the chaos that results.

She can't take to herself a right that doesn't belong to her, and retain the man's love or respect for the usurpation.

She must let love take its way, and if that way be slow, she has cause for being glad.

If it is honest, sincere and mutual, it is the happiest part of a girl's life when it is in the stage of developing, and any effort to hasten it means to lose some of the sweetness and joy on the way.

"Live, work and love; as heaven designs,
For heaven, or man, the sacred part;
Ancestresses of a noble line,
Or calm in maidenly decline;
But keep till death the woman's heart."

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE

"More women worry over superfluous hairs than any other disfiguring blemish. Wind hairs on face or forearms can be easily, quickly and safely removed by the use of dekatoos paste. Just mix powdered dekatoos with enough water to cover the hairs; apply, and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone.

The luxury of a perfectly dry shampoo cannot be equaled. To four ounces of powdered orris root add an original package of therox. Sift a teaspoonful of this mixture on the head, then brush out thoroughly and the scalp will be clean, cool and refreshed, while the hair will be light, wavy and beautifully lustrous.

To make a true complexion beautifier that will give your skin a lovely tone instantly, yet be harmless and lasting, dissolve an original package of maxatone in a half pint of witch hazel and rub a little on face, neck and forearms each morning. Maxatone will not come off any more than powder, and leaves the skin soft, fair and youthful looking.

The eyebrows should be brushed gently each day. To cause them to grow in an arch, and to make them thick and strongly, promote should be used with finger tips. Applied nightly, it will also make the eyelashes grow long and silky.

THE FIRST GRAY HAIR SIGN OF AGE. DON'T LOOK OLD BEFORE YOUR TIME

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as to care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion and yet neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out, but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give your money back if you are not satisfied after using. Purchase a bottle today. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance.

A Mysterious Disappearance

One of the Greatest Detective Stories Ever Written

By Gordon Holmes

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

Copyright, 1905, by Edward J. Clode.

"COULD you not have given notice? Why was it necessary to create a further scandal in addition to the disappearance of your unfortunate mistress?"

"I am sorry for that. It was thoughtless, I admit. If I had to act over again, I should have done differently. But what does it matter now?"

"It matters this much—that the police must be informed of your existence, as they are searching for you, believing that you are in some way mixed up with Lady Dyke's death."

The girl started violently, and she flushed, rather with anger than alarm, Bruce thought, as he watched her narrowly.

"The police, indeed," she snorted. "What have the police to do with me? A nice thing you're saying, Mr. Bruce."

"I am merely telling you the naked truth."

"All right. Tell them. I don't care a pin for them or you. Have you anything else to say, because I wish to join my friends?"

The girl's language and attitude mystified him more than any preceding feature of this remarkable investigation. She was, of course, far better educated than he had imagined, and the difference between the hysterical witness at the coroner's inquiry and this pert self-possessed young woman was phenomenal.

Rather than risk an open rupture, the barrister temporized. "If you are anxious to quarrel with me, by all means do so," he said; "but that was not my motive in speaking to you here tonight."

Suspects Him

Miss le Marchant shot a suspicious glance at him. "Then what was your motive?" she said.

"Chiefly to reassure my friend, your former master, concerning you; and, perhaps, to learn the cause of your very strange conduct."

"Why should Sir Charles bother his head about me?"

"As I have told you. Because of the coincidence between your departure and Lady Dyke's death."

"Oh, yes, I know that." Then she added testily: "I was a fool not to manage differently."

"So you refuse me an explanation?"

"No. I don't. I have no reason to do so. I come in for some money, and as I have longed all my life to be an actress I could not wait an hour, a moment, before I—before I——"

"Before you tried to gratify your impulse."

"Yes, that is what I wanted to say."

"But why not at least have written to Sir Charles, telling him of your intentions?"

The fair Marie was silent for a moment. The question confused her. "I hardly know," she replied.

"Will you write him now?"

"I don't see why I should."

"Indeed. Not even when it was you who gave some of your mistress' underclothing to Mr. White, by which means he was able to identify the body found at Putney as that of Lady Dyke?"

"Mr. White told you that, did he?"

"He did."

"Then you had better get him to give you all further information, Mr. Bruce, as not another word will you get out of me."

She bounced up, fiery red, pluming herself for the fray.

"Will you not communicate with Sir Charles?" he said, utterly baffled by Miss le Marchant's uncompromising attitude.

"Perhaps I will and perhaps I won't. Mr. White, indeed?" And she ran off to join her friends.

The barrister drove quietly homeward. This was his summary of the evening's events: "I have found two women. When I know all about them I shall be able to lay my hand on the person who killed Lady Dyke."

In the City.

MESSRS. DODGE & CO., of Leadenhall street, possessed business premises of greater pretensions than Bruce had pictured to himself from Mrs. Hillmer's description of their transactions with her brother.

Not only were their offices commodious and well situated, but a liberal display of gold lettering, intermingled with official brass plates marking the registering offices of many companies, gave evidence of some degree of importance—whether fictitious or otherwise Bruce could not determine, as he scrutinized the exterior of the building on the following morning.

Moreover, workmen were even then busy in substituting the title "Dodge, Son & Co., Ltd.," for "Messrs. Dodge & Company," the suggestive nature of the latter designation having perhaps proved a stumbling block in the way of the guileless investor.

When the barrister entered the office, a busy place, a hive of many clerks, and adorned with gigantic maps of the Rand, West Australia, Cripple Creek and Klondike, he asked for Mr. Dodge.

His card procured him ready admission. He was shown into an elaborately upholstered apartment of considerable size. At the further end, seated in front of a gorgeous American desk, was a young man who scrutinized Bruce's visiting card and then motioned the barrister to be seated.

Bruce was curious on the question of the age of the head of the firm.

"Are you Mr. Dodge, or the son?" he said, with utmost gravity.

The other was taken aback by this unexpected method of opening the conversation. It imposed him.

"I am the representative of the firm, sir, and fully able to deal with your business, whatever it may be," he replied.

"No doubt. But it will simplify matters if I know exactly to whom I am addressing myself."

After an uneasy shuffling in his seat—he could not guess what this keen-faced, earnest-eyed lawyer might want—the representative of Messrs. Dodge & Co. (Limited), explained that he was Dodge, and the name of the firm had been adopted for general purposes.

"Then there is no 'son,' I take it."

"Yes, there is, sir"—this with a sort of sigh—"How old is he?"

"What the dickens has that got to do with it? Will you kindly tell me what you want, sir, as my time is fully occupied?"

"Just now I want to know how old the son is."

This calm persistence irritated Mr. Dodge beyond endurance.

"Three years, confound you, and his sister is four months. Can I oblige you with any more details concerning my family affairs?"

Having purposely raised this man to a boiling point by this herculean method of examination, Claude tackled the real business in hand. He was quite sure that a financial sharper in a temper was far more likely to blurt out the truth than if he were approached in a matter-of-fact manner.

What About Corbett?

"To begin with," he explained, never taking his eyes off the furious face of Mr. Dodge, "I have called to ask for information with regard to your dealings with Mr. Sydney H. Corbett, of Raleigh Mansions, Sloane Square."

"I never heard of him in my life. You have evidently come to the wrong office, Mr. Bruce."

"Are you quite sure?"

"Well, nearly so. However, I can tell you in a moment, as it is impossible for me to carry every name connected with several companies in my memory."

Mr. Dodge recovered his temper now that he saw a chance of discomforting his caustic visitor. He touched an electric bell, and told the answering youth to send Mr. Hawkins.

"My correspondence clerk," he explained loftily when Hawkins entered. "Are we in communication with any one named Sydney H. Corbett, Mr. Hawkins?"

"No, sir."

"Have you ever heard the name?"

"No, sir."

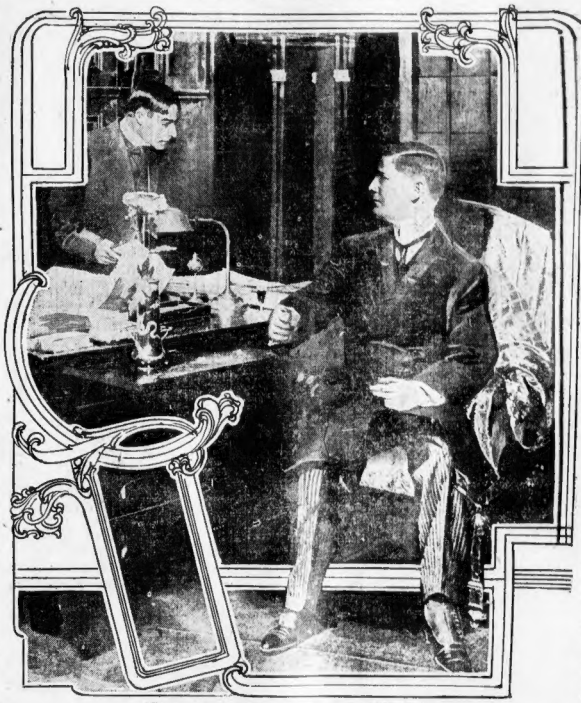
To Be Continued Tomorrow.

BEGIN TODAY BY READING THIS FIRST

LADY ALICE DYKE, wife of Sir Charles Dyke, disappears from her London home. She is traced to Richmond by Claude Bruce, a barrister, and friend of Sir Charles. The body of the murdered woman is found jammed in a drain pipe at Putney. Inspector White, of Scotland Yard, finds that some of the underclothing on the body belonged to Lady Dyke. The body however is not identified. Soon after, Jane Harding, Lady Dyke's maid, also disappears. Bruce searches Richmond for a clew and centres his attention on Raleigh Mansions, a fashionable apartment house. He ventures to call on Mrs. Gwendolen Hillmer, one of the tenants, who he learns, is acquainted with Sydney H. Corbett, a former tenant, and who disappeared at the time of the mystery. Mrs. Hillmer admits that Corbett is her brother, and because of an unfortunate business deal with Dodge & Co., brokers, was forced to go to the south of France. She refuses to tell Corbett's real name. She and Bruce go to the theatre. He recognizes one of the chorus girls as the missing maid. After the play Bruce manages to meet the girl. He asks her why she disappeared so suddenly, and she answers evasively.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

BRUCE FACES THE BROKER



"The name is absolutely unknown to me," said Mr. Dodge.

HE BESTS A POET

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THIS first time I ever saw Pa fellin was site beefour last. The reason Pa doesnt git fellins every is because every time he looks in the glass he thinks a little better of hisself than he did the last time he looked in the glass. But site beefour last my old gent was kind of nervus.

The reesun was that Ma had compose a pome then which was present wat being post. He was the driest lookin pome man that I ever saw. He was about six fete four tall & he had grey hir dirk eyes & black hair, kind of long, & he talked in sonded like mayble. I no he talked enuff. Ma & all the ladies made a fuss over him. Pa & the other three gentlemen was fat, but they are all good fellows, anyhow. They dident like it the way all thare wives was walking up to the poet.

I think disfine poetry is simply grand, sed Mr. Husband sed Ma, dosent this kind remind you of Lord Byron? I dunno, sed Pa. I never was a good jiker at anyone. Oh, I'm not in the mood, sed Mister Leogrande, sed Ma to the poet, won't you reesite us sum of yure poetry?

He Recites

I want to be dissrited, sed Mister Leogrande. Here is a little thing that I rote one nite sent in Jamaica Plain. & then he recited:

Night, oh Night Wunderful. Thy touch
When over us all thy mantel falleth soft
Brings peace and holy calm, and rest from
Night Wunderful. Sweeter than garlds
Thou comest at Night shud come, all dark and soft
And sable sweet. Oh Night, deep, solem
Night.

Isent that simply divine? sed all of the ladies.

It was kind of dark that night, wasnt it, sed Pa. How did you find your way home, Mister Leogrande?

My name is not Leogrs, sed the poet, My name is Leogrande.

I beg your pardon, sed Pa. Wen you was getting all that dark stuff it made me think of Uncle Tom & that made me think of Simon Legree. But dismt you ever, my boy, my boy call. Have you got a nice light pome that you would like to face off. Me & my frends will stand for it, sed Pa.

All Serious

My pecms are all serious, sed Mister Leogrande. Bezsur is dirting us to a ultimate goal too fast to be frivolous, he sed.

Forget about bezsur & ultimate goals, sed Pa, reesite us a funny pome, so we can all git a good smile on.

I guess you had enuff good smiles to-day, sed Mr. Leogrande reesite the kind of pomes that true poets rite.

No sir, sed Pa. Tomorrow is the first of the month with a month's rent to pay & a butcher & a grocer to see. What we want tonite is a funny pome. If sum one has got fresh outt reesite one, lisen to this:

A rescued girl upon a branch
Out on a Arizona ranch
A cowboy who was pigeon hed
Along the narrow path then rode
With he fixed fo that one sum grate.
The rescued in as well as fate.
Nobody killed enyon Pa's nane thinks.
But just looked at Pa a minute kind of & then he took his hat & wrote sum.
I think Pa better stick to his work & not try to rite because Pa gets his work started about.

Joyful News

EASTER sessions in the law courts of Chicago were unusually short in full swing. But on the third day a dreadful calamity occurred. The court crier was absent.

"Well, we must endeavor to find a substitute," remarked the judge.

The suggestion was cordially received, and various cases came on for trial.

And so they were in the middle of an exciting case, a breathless moment, when in came an hobbled a letter to the judge. The latter read it and then announced to the court:

"I have a message from our court crier. He says: 'Wife's mother died last night. Will not be able to cry today.'"

FEWER DIPLOMAS FOR CITY TO GIVE

The number of diplomas that the city will grant this year will be slightly smaller than last year. Last year the diplomas numbered 8,111, of which 112 were given normal graduates, 1,043 to high school graduates, 6,575 to the elementary schools and twenty to the Horace Mann School for the Deaf.

The Prince Grammar School, Exeter and Newbury streets, will close on Friday, day of this week with graduating exercises. The other elementary schools will not close before the first of the month, and their graduating exercises will be on the following Friday. The High Schools will hold their graduating exercises on Thursday, June 20.

The consolidation of Hyde Park gives one more high school and two more elementary school districts. There has been also an addition of two school districts to the Boston system. The new Hyde Park districts are the Greenwood and Grew. Soon to Boston the John Winthrop and the U. S. Grant.

The largest class graduated this year will come from the Oliver Wendell Holmes district, Dorchester. This class will have about 325 pupils.

LAY CORNERSTONE FOR DENTAL INFIRMARY

John Hamilton Forsyth, one of the donors, laid the cornerstone of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary for Children on Longwood avenue, this afternoon. The building, which will be the only one of its kind in the world, will cost $600,000, and will be completed about May 1, 1913. Governor Foss was unable to attend the exercises owing to the illness of his father. Mayor Fitzgerald gave the principal address.

BAY STATE MEN HEAD CHAUFFEURS' UNION

UTICA, N. Y., June 5.—The Chauffeurs' Federation of America, in annual meeting here, elected Benjamin F. Earl, West Quincy, Mass., president, and Carleton G. Brown, Boston, first vice-president.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The first Boston used automobile show opens at the Boston Arena tonight under the direction of G. H. Dalgliesh. The dealer says that quite a number of Boston factory branches and agencies will be among the exhibitors.

All kinds of automobiles from the small-est runabout to the most expensive touring cars, second-hand, of course, will be exhibited.

In order that the public can have a chance to view the cars that are offered for sale the exhibitors have agreed to remove each night all automobiles which have been sold during the day and which shall be replaced by other cars the next day. The show opens at 8 o'clock each evening and will continue until June 11. Each evening and afternoon concerts will be rendered by a band.

Even though Manager James F. Kerr of the New England Aviation Company is unable to secure Harry Atwood, Weymouth boy, Brown for the meet at Rockingham park Saturday afternoon, he has arranged for the original bill by a number of new features.

Mr. Kerr went to New York to get Dominico Piarno or Beno Benno but they will not come here as they sailed yesterday to take part in the Grand Prize Race over the Dieppe circuit on the 19th and 20th of this month.

There is every indication that there will be a lot of good sport at Rockingham Park as there will be seven automobile and motorcycle match race between Harry Grant, Charlie Cash and Harry Cobb.

This special race ought to be a big attraction. Cobb will ride his motorcycle and Jack Jackson car and he will race it to its utmost in order to win. Grant will probably drive Fred Collins' big Chadwick, while Grant will be at the wheel of a Berkshire.

G. S. Dalgliesh, a representative of the Jones Recorder Company, is in Boston investigating the cost of horse-drawn and motor vehicle transportation.

The Jones Recorder is an instrument that shows the time the vehicle to which it is attached leaves the station, the mileage, the number of stops it makes during the day, the duration of each stop, the mileage covered between each stop, the speed at which the vehicle was driven between each stop and the time the vehicle returned to the stable or garage.

The Electric Vehicle Club will hold its annual outing on the ground of the New England Kennel Club this afternoon. The members will all go over in their electric vehicles. In the afternoon a baseball game and other sports will be held followed by a banquet in the evening.

Ray Baker is chairman of the committee that has the affair in charge. Baker is a hustler it looks as though there will be something doing every moment for the electric men.

If You Had Nine Hundred Million Dollars—What Would You Do?

Are You Sure That You Would Do Better Than Rockefeller with HIS Nine Hundred Millions?

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

We spend too much time in this country criticising others, and too little time in analyzing and criticising ourselves.

The other day a government investigation enabled financial sharps to unearth the sad fact that John D. Rockefeller is worth only about nine hundred millions of dollars. This is disappointing after spending years in the belief that he had one thousand millions. Perhaps he has been a saving gentleman and has saved up the other hundred millions out of his income, and perhaps he really has the billion that public imagination gave him.

However that may be, many citizens are ready to criticize Rockefeller and to tell, without urging, what THEY would do if THEY had nine hundred millions.

They say they would abolish poverty—forgetting that nine hundred millions would only buy ONE ten-dollar suit of clothes for each person in our country. They would take care of the old and feeble and free age from anxiety—forgetting that Rockefeller's income would not pay the annual tobacco bill of the aged.

They say that they would give children in public schools good and sufficient food and give pure milk to babies—forgetting that Rockefellers, Vanderbilts, Astors and Morgans combined have not money enough for such a task; forgetting that the only thing that can help ALL OF THE PEOPLE is the combined wealth and intelligence of ALL OF THE PEOPLE.

We are brilliant and ready in our criticising of others. Every veteran in the old soldier's home can describe Napoleon's mistakes at Waterloo. Few are equal to Napoleon.

What would YOU do if you had nine hundred millions? The question is worth thought—for all thought is useful, and thinking what you WOULD do helps you to shape your efforts in the things that you CAN do.

After you have thought the matter over and planned out just what you WOULD do, if you were Rockefeller, ask yourself WHY YOU DON'T DO NOW ON A SMALL SCALE THE THINGS THAT YOU THINK YOU WOULD DO.

Do you say that with nine hundred millions you would provide for a million poor children? Why not provide for ONE NOW, without waiting for the nine hundred millions?

Do you think how you would enjoy making happy the life of an old father or mother? Why not do that very thing NOW? You can do that, without nine hundred million dollars or nine hundred cents.

What fathers and mothers want is to see their sons and daughters DOING THEIR BEST. You need not take your mother out in a snorting ninety-horsepower machine with six cylinders, a proud chauffeur and a cloud of dust to make her happy. Take her through the country on a trolley and make her feel that you would rather be with HER than with any other human being, and she will be just as happy as though you gave her half of nine hundred million dollars—and happier.

If each man would think of the things that he would do with nine hundred millions, and then do the one-millionth part of the work without waiting, this would be a very fine world.

Each of us, merely as a working machine, is worth at least nine HUNDRED dollars and would sell for that at public auction. Nine hundred dollars is one-millionth part of the fortune of Rockefeller. Let each one of us do the one-millionth part of what he thinks he would do if he were Rockefeller, and most of our problems will be solved.

For it is only the combined wealth and intelligence of ALL the people that can really accomplish big things. And if each did now the best things possible with the power in his hands, all things would be done.

How many of us, do you suppose, would do better than Rockefeller, the much criticised, if we had his wealth? How many of us would do as well? Few indeed.

He has established an institute to study disease and fight disease, and drive it from the earth. His millions are fighting cancer, and infantile paralysis and sleeping sickness and the dreadful blood diseases that for ages have been the shame and scourge of humanity. Under the shadow of his wealth and intelligent generosity the greatest scientists and surgeons work secure. They need only think of adding to human knowledge. Rockefeller provides everything. That great institute planned in Rockefeller's mind will save in ages to come millions of lives—ten lives at least for every one of the nine hundred million dollars that Rockefeller owns. Could any man do better than fight man's enemies WITH KNOWLEDGE in the ages to come, making every dollar and perhaps every cent represent a human life saved and a human being rescued from misery?

Not to cure but to PREVENT is the task that Rockefeller has set for himself and his money. Could there be a greater task?

He fights to prevent disease in his magnificent institute, he fights to prevent ignorance and superstition with the millions that he gives to education. All that has been said of Rockefeller's actions ACCUMULATING may be true, and—what is more probable—nine-tenths of it may be false. But this surely is true. Rockefeller uses his money FOR ALL THE PEOPLE. He is doing as an individual what the nation as a whole has not intelligence to do. He considers himself a responsible custodian of the millions that he has dipped up from the golden stream of opportunity. And humanity will be better off because of his work when he shall have been dead ten thousand years. His dollars fight diseases, man's enemies, and ignorance, man's GREATEST enemy, as the bullets of the frontiersman fought wolves, bears, catamounts and redskins.

Few of those who tell what they would do if they had nine hundred millions can compare in imaginary usefulness with the ACTUAL usefulness of Rockefeller, who HAS the nine hundred millions.

And there we see how wisdom rules us all for our good.

"To him that hath," in this improved day, is given the power to spend well what he hath. There is no more spending of accumulated wealth to save the unimportant little soul of the owner. No more leaving of money to bribe divine omnipotence into forgetting or forgiving sin. Money now is spent by all but the superstitious and ignorant, not for THEIR SOULS, but for the souls, bodies and intellects of others—and so the world progresses.

Wise laws should control and restrain those that are great and powerful through wealth. But grateful humanity should recognize the good that is done. Criticizing ourselves more often and others less often, we should remember how many of us are at heart like the man who was asked: "What would you do if some one gave you two hundred thousand dollars?" and who answered: "I would count it."

The Licensing Board Is Vital to Boston—Only Broad, Fair-Minded Men Should Be Appointed on It

The term of office of Ezra H. Baker, chairman of the Licensing Board, has expired and Governor Foss is looking about for a man to take his place. It may appear a simple thing to select a man to sit on the Licensing Board, but it is not—it is a very difficult thing.

It must be borne in mind that the liquor traffic, in liquor stores, in hotels and restaurants is not only of vital interest to the homes but to Boston as a city.

There is probably no position in Boston that calls for more good judgment, of the broad-minded sort, freedom from cliques of all kinds, and action that has for its object the GOOD OF THE WHOLE CITY, than that of member of the Licensing Board.

Men and countries hold different views on the liquor question. The AMERICAN has always pointed out to young men the absolute mistake they make when they drink strong liquor. But as long as the law permits places where liquor is sold these places should be conducted in the BEST INTERESTS of the public.

All DIVES should be stamped out.

Every liquor business should be conducted in as strict accordance with the law as any other business is conducted. That being true, the man selected to fill Chairman Baker's place should be a man of FAIR MIND.

If he were a Prohibitionist, he could not give the honest liquor dealer a square deal.

If he were a liquor dealer, or connected in any way with the business, he could not give the public a square deal.

Hence, the importance of getting a man of independence of mind and free from entanglements of all kinds. He should be a Boston man—a man interested in the welfare of the city and the homes of the city.

Governor Foss has been unusually happy in his appointments to office. The people have confidence that Chairman Baker's place will be filled with the right man.

The Future of the Public School

—AND—

The Situation As It Is Now

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

A BOY of erratic tendencies, together with exceptionally bright intellectual qualities, was always in trouble in his city school.

He took small interest in his studies, was often late, and his report usually brought sorrow to his home.

He moved into the country and entered a graded school, and became enamored of study, went eagerly to his classes and was reported among the leaders in all his studies.

There were two explanations of this change.

One was the normal, free, out-of-doors life the boy lived; the other was that HE WAS ONE OF FIFTEEN IN HIS CLASSES INSTEAD OF ONE OF SIXTY, AS IN TOWN.

He felt no individual responsibility in the throng, but in the smaller band of students he stood forth a personality, and he felt the "noblesse oblige" of the situation.

A wave of dissatisfaction is sweeping over the country regarding our school system.

And eventually this will cause a change to be made.

The larger understanding of mothers regarding education will result in the personal element entering into the training of children.

More Teachers, Higher Pay and Fewer Scholars Needed

When women have a voice in the affairs of the nation there will be more teachers, larger salaries, fewer pupils in each department, and more attention will be given to the temperaments and varying dispositions of children by their instructors.

Instead of regarding the little ones who enter public schools as machines which must be taught to go according to one rule, each child will be studied as a threefold being, and his mind, body and spirit will be cared for and developed according to his own peculiar needs. All this will come slowly, but it will come.

Before children enter the public schools there should be a great sifting process under the direction of a national board of scientific men.

The brain equipment of each child, the tendencies given it at birth, should be tested; then the nervous, hysterical and erratic minds ought to be placed in a school by themselves, under the care of men and women who know the law of mental suggestion.

Quiet, loving, wholesome rules, followed day after day and month after month, would bring these children out into the light of self-control and concentration. The hurried, crowding, exciting methods of the public schools are disastrous to fully half of the unformed minds sent into the intellectual maelstrom which America provides under the name of public Schools.

Schools Unsafe for the Average American Child

For the well-born, normal-minded, healthy-bodied child, who has wise and careful guardians or parents to assist in his mental guidance, the public school forms a good basis on which to build an education. For the average American child of excitable nerves and precocious tendencies, it is like deep surf swimming for the inexperienced and adventurous bather.

The great foundation of education—character—is not taught in the public schools. There is no systematized process of developing a child's power of concentration; there is not time for this in the cramming process now in vogue and with the enormous pressure placed on teachers.

No teacher can do justice to more than fifteen children through the school hours. In many of our public schools there are fifty and sixty children under one instructor. This is fatal to the nervous system of the teacher and deprives the pupils of that personal sympathy which is of such vital importance.

Luther Burbank, the famous California horticulturist, declares that the great object and aim of his life is to apply to the training of children those scientific ideas which he has so successfully employed in working transformation in plant life.

The Rev. Dr. James W. Lee, pastor of St. John's Southern Methodist Church, of St. Louis, went to Santa Rosa, Cal., for an interview with Mr. Burbank. He said to Mr. Burbank that he had referred to his work in an address at Portland, Ore., and had expressed the wish that he might introduce into the method of rearing children some of the scientific ideas that he was applying every day to the improvement of plants.

Burbank Says Children Need Spiritual Influences

Dr. Lee says that Mr. Burbank replied: "That is the great object and aim of my life."

Continuing, Mr. Burbank declared that plants, weeds and trees were responsive to a few influences in their environment, but that children were infinitely more responsive, and the failure to recognize the spiritual elements in the environing conditions of children had been the fatal lack in dealing with them.

The Wanderlust

By MINNA IRVING

I WANT to go up to the top, tip, top
And see what is over the hill;
There is maybe a garden of roses and bees,
Or an orchard, a lake or a mill,
A wood all a-shimmer with shadow and sun
As it wanes to the blue of the sky,
Or a winding white highway where, powdered with dust,
The carts, heavy laden, roll by.

I want to cross over the river beyond
And follow the path that may lead
To a tower and a town, or a farm and a field
Where the red cattle lazily feed,
And bridges are spanning the silvery streams,
And pleasure boats rock in the sedge;
I want to go on to the rim of the world
And see what is over the edge.
